500,000 TURKS MASSACRED

STRIKE ON RAILROAD IN MAINE

BANGOR, Me., Jan. 18.—In pursuance of a vote taken yesterday 150 engineers and firemen on the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad, a line that operates in northern and eastern Maine, went out on strike today because the company refused to grant their demands for an increase in pay.

Anticipating this result the company had men ready to take the places of the strikers and passenger trains were kept moving in some fashion.

Detectives were scattered along the railroad to prevent the strike breakers from being interfered with. Freight traffic was practically at a standstill.

The engineers and firemen demand from 12 to 24 per cent. increase in wages. The company said this would mean an additional expense of $150,000 a year, and that as there had not been a cent available for dividend purposes the demands could not be granted.

"The railroad's pocketbook is empty," declared Percy R. Todd," and there is no use trying to arbitrate the matter."

The shipping of potatoes and paper and the hauling of coal for the big paper mills is the chief freight work of the railroad.

The entire railroad was tied up this afternoon. Reports received here state that not a single train is in operation. All freight business is accepted subject to delay. It was stated that the road attempted to move a mail car from Van Buren this afternoon.

B-R-R! GET READY TO COAL UP!

A cold wave tomorrow is due to lower the high temperature which has made the month so far the warmest January in the forty-two years' history of the local weather station.

The average temperature for this month up to yesterday, in Boston was thirty-eight degrees above zero.

Today started much higher than the average. From fifty-two degrees above zero at one a. m., the mercury went to fifty-four for two hours, then back to fifty-two and finally up to fifty-four again by ten o'clock.

The local forecast now calls for rain and colder, thus:

"Rain tonight, with falling temperature. Sunday cloudy and colder, increasing westerly winds."

If the coming cold wave does not interfere with today's ascent of the thermometer, today may break another weather record, like yesterday did.

Yesterday was the hottest January 17 in the history of Boston weather takings. The maximum temperature was 50. In 1850 the Boston mercury climbed to 58 degrees on January 17, but never did it since anti yesterday.

From the city and suburbs strange tales have come of the warmth, tales of blooming pansies in Brighton, of yellow dandelions in Lexington, of housekeepers looking over Spring clothing weeks ahead of time, of hurried orders to the ice houses, and of cancellations to the coal dealer.

Explanation of the remarkable and continued warmth in mid-Winter is as follows:

It is caused by the low barometer pressure areas which travel from West to East over the centre of the Great Lake district and thence over the St. Lawrence, without any well-defined high barometrical pressures following. This means that Boston lying about three to five hundred miles south of the centre experiences warm weather.

It would be impossible to give an explanation by the mere study of weather conditions in the State of Massachusetts. One must study the intricate and complex atmospheric conditions of the entire Northern Hemisphere in order to get a comprehensive understanding of the phenomenon.

The unseasonable weather is bringing out the speakers of warnings, who cry: "Take heed, take heed," to family and friends.

These cautious ones are careful not to expose themselves to all the little germs of disease which are said to be particularly active and enterprising in "soft weather."

ETTOR LEADS STRIKERS IN HAVERHILL

HAVERHILL, Jan. 18.—Extra heavy guards of police were stationed about the city today to enforce order in the big shoe strike, affecting ten shoe shops. Chief orders to enforce the city ordinance that gives them power to arrest anyone making the slightest demonstration on the street, merely shouting, and the first striker who raises his voice above the ordinary tone will be placed under arrest.

The heavy police guard was ordered out partly as a demonstration to the strikers that the Haverhill police mean business.

Joseph J. Ettor, the Lawrence strike I. W. W. leader, is in the city. He addressed a meeting of the strikers in Vitterio Emanuenelle Hall, on River street, and counselled against violence. Ettor said:

> It would be useless for you to go out on a general strike now in an unorganized condition, as no strike can be won when the workers are divided. Some one may say that the textile workers in Lawrence won their strike a year ago, when they went out and were unorganized.
>
> That is true, but in that city there were 30,000 of them, and they had been repeatedly ground down until they backed into the corner and would not stand it any longer. It was because they were united in their demands that they won, and if that was true here at the present time it would be easy for you to win a general strike for shorter hours and more pay.

This he will break into small pieces and pack about the roots of the trees. They will thus believe it believes then that Winter is still in the land.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Jan. 18.—Thirty-two large round pancakes found an ecclesiastical haven here at a supper given by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Pitman Methodist Church.

Thirty-one others had to be content with the surroundings. All of which is but a polite introduction to the announcement that the Rev. Harold Paul Sloan, pastor of the church, defeated Mrs. Charles Hansel, president of the Ladies' Aid society, by de ake in the feature event of the evening—"The pancake contest."

There were many entrants for the honor of having the greatest pancake appetite, but as the cakes began to disappear so did the appetites of a great number of the contestants, many of whom quit at an early stage.

UNCLE SAM OIL CO. MAY BE PROSECUTED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Secretary of the Interior Fisher today sent a letter to the House committee on Indian affairs in reply to the charge of the Uncle Sam Oil Company that the Interior Department invalidated leases of oil and gas lands in Osage Indian reservation in Oklahoma apparently through the influence of the Standard Oil Company.

Fisher says conditions of the Osage reservation in Oklahoma are so serious that the matter was reported to the Department of Justice, which is now investigating with a view to determining whether criminal action should be begun against the Uncle Sam Oil Company and a number of Indian chiefs.

Albert L. Wilson, counsel for the Uncle Sam Oil Company, appeared before the committee today and charged that the Interior Department, from 1906 to 1912, made up regulations for leasing the Osage oil and gas lands, although it was authorized by Congress to do so. He declared the Standard Oil Company is buying the surface land through dummies to get control of the mineral rights.

Fisher's statement to the committee shows that on July 3, 1912, he submitted the matter to President Taft and the latter approved the secretary's refusal to recognize the lease of the Uncle Sam Oil Company.

"My really, you know, I don't see of what consequence the loss of a stocking is to you?" Miss Hunt asked. "My sister isn't here, and she is the only one who could just how it was lost, but I understand it has been found and returned to her."

Who was the finder and if there was a reward could not be learned.

SERVIANS LEAD IN BUTCHERY

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Marmaduke Pickthall, who before he began writing novels passed several years in Oriental countries and knows European Turkey particularly well, writes in the Times:

"From information which reached myself and others, it seems certain that an organized and cruel slaughter of non-combatants—men, women and children—among the Mahometans of Macedonia has been going on for weeks past and is still in progress; the object being nothing less than their extermination. The victims, including fugitives, are said already greatly to exceed half a million. In fact, if my information is correct—and I have every reason to believe it so—the most awful massacre of modern times is being perpetrated in the name of Christianity.

"I should be the last to expect humanity in Eastern warfare, but this thing is not warfare; it is butchery of the Mussulmans of Macedonia, who represent 60 per cent. of the population."

A similar appeal has been addressed to the heads of other Powers.

An Appeal to Europe.

The Vienna Reichspost, which for some time past has been printing accounts of alleged atrocities by Servian troops, published an article from a correspondent, who says he personally witnessed many incidents described and had others authenticated by trustworthy persons.

"We make an appeal to the heart of Europe," says the Reichspost, "to arouse her conscience; for in her history there is no chapter since long bygone days which narrates such inhuman atrocities as were perpetrated after the occupation of Albania by the Serbs, while so much innocent blood has seldom flowed. We do not demand belief, but ask that Europe dispatch a commission to convince herself what is happening in Albania."

The Reichspost's correspondence continues:

"What were the numbers of the Mohammedan population in the conquered territory two months ago, and what today?

"What were the tortures which had been inflicted upon the wretched creatures, men and women, who were pitilessly hunted down?

"What is the military status of the Bulgarian komitadjis? Is it not the same as that of the Turkish bashibazouks, about whose doings there has been such an outcry in the past? Have the Bulgarian authorities hanged one of them?

"What has been the role of the Bulgarian and Servian regulars?

"These and other questions, e. g. the torture of the Jews, call aloud for an international investigation. The honor of Christendom and civilization alike demand the full inquiry."

The appeal is addressed to King George and a number of Turkish deputies, who assert that despite the armistice the massacre of Mohammedans in the provinces occupied by the Balkan allies has continued "in the last month.

"In the districts where the war has ceased the bands continue to act," says the appeal, "and the object is extermination."

"In the chasm among the rocks behind the fortress at Uskub there lies today the corpses of more than 100 Albanians from villages which were destroyed by fire, and along the gorge of Vistula Vods there are about eighty dead bodies. Of 132 wounded Albanians who were sent to the hospital at Uskub 100 died as the result of insufficient food. They were actually allowed to starve.

"The Serbs killed harmless Albanians when they crossed the bridges over the Vardar before my eyes. As it was difficult to dig graves for the murdered corpses, the ground being frozen, they flung them into cisterns near Uskub. Thirty-eight cisterns were filled with corpses.

"I have a perfect command of the Servian language the Servian officers and soldiers often took me for a fellow-countryman. A Servian soldier told me how a Albanian village near Kumanovo was stormed and many villagers who were unable to flee hid themselves in the attics of the houses.

"'We smoked them out,' he said, 'and when huts burned they came down screaming, weeping, and begging for mercy, like mice from their underground tunnels. We shut the doors upon them, only with the children did we spare our pistols and bayonets. We devastated the village because shots were fired from a house with a white flag.'"

WHAT WILL CURE MY BACK?

Common sense will do more to cure backache than anything else. Twill tell you whether the kidneys are sore, swollen and aching. It will tell you in that case that there is no use trying to cure it with a plaster. If the passages are scant or too frequent, proof that there is kidney trouble is complete. Then common sense will tell you to use Doan's Kidney Pills, the best recommended special kidney remedy.

A BOSTON MAN SAYS—

ALLIES PLAN TO DRIVE TURKEY OUT OF EUROPE

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The peace envoys of the Balkan states today agreed that the joint note of the powers handed to the Porte did not put any restraint on the allies, and they declared Turkey's rejection of the advice of the powers would mean the utter annihilation of Turkey-in-Europe.

The Balkan delegates said they could interpret no part of the note to be in opposition to the capture of the allies of Constantinople, and they declared the taking of the Ottoman capital would be the first thing undertaken, should the war be resumed.

At the same time the Balkan plenipotentiaries professed to be confident war would not be resumed. They said they were remaining in London because they expected the St. James Palace peace negotiations to be reopened soon.

"I cannot believe Turkey would be so foolish as to reject the advice of the powers, and I am confident the peace conference will be resumed early next week," said Dr. Danef, chief of the Bulgarians.

The note of the powers, jointly presented to the Turkish government by the Ambassador at Constantinople, grants the Porte to submit to the terms offered by the allies, including the cession of Adrianople and the Aegean islands. Turkey was told that if she precipitated fresh hostilities she would receive no financial aid from any of the powers and would lay herself liable to assaults in Asiatic Turkey, which up to now the allies have not attacked.

NEW BUILDINGS FOR TECH READY BY FALL OF 1915

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—More than 1,000 alumni of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology have come from all parts of the country and from as far off as Mexico to take part in the two days' celebration, which is the first general reunion of Tech alumni ever held in New York.

The principal cause for rejoicing among the alumni was the fact that President H. C. Maclaurin, in less than two hours, had taken up a collection of $7,000,000 from friends of Tech, thereby probably breaking all records for college presidents.

Interest centred in the identity of Mr. "Smith," the mysterious benefactor, who gave $2,500,000 for the building of a brand new educational plant, but President Maclaurin positively stated that the real name of the donor would not be made public at the present reunion. The significance of the name "Smith" was explained by an alumnus who pointed to the initials of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

A mass meeting was held in the banquet hall of the Plaza, and 500 alumni gave the Tech cheer as President Maclaurin rose to address them.

Dr. Maclaurin said in part:

"The star of Tech is in the ascendant; at least she is coming into her own, and the hearts of all that love her are stirred by the possibilities of her future glories.

"Four months have been bombarded by the eager questions from alumni and others: 'When will building begin?' I regret the apparent indecision, but if we can not yet say quite definitely when we shall begin, I think we may with some certainty that we shall end in the fall of 1915. When I say 'end' I mean the buildings for which fundamental provision has already been made through the generosity of Mr. Smith, namely the strictly educational buildings, lecture rooms, laboratories, etc."

TRY TO SPREAD WARREN STRIKE TO NEW MILLS

WEST WARREN, Jan. 18.—The leaders in the strike of 300 in the cotton mills here have asked the operatives at the mill's in Three Rivers to walk out with them, and action upon this request will be taken at a meeting of the Three Rivers operatives tonight.

In the meantime no evictions, as threatened, have been made, and while a careful watch is being maintained over the mills peaceful conditions prevail.

Much interest centres about the meeting of the Three Rivers operatives tonight. If these men vote a sympathetic strike on Monday the situation in the Thorndyke Company's mills will become somewhat complicated, as the Three Rivers mills also belong to this concern.

Today the operatives still at work get a half day off, and the strikers will try to win some of them over to their side.

Fight Cause of Countrywomen.

The strike, the men out declare, has been made in behalf of the Polish women whom the men assert are being discriminated against by the mill owners in favor of the women of other nationalities.

This is denied by the mill officials, who declare that they are willing to take back the strikers if they wish to return.

It has been declared that the eviction order was merely a bluff on the part of the company to get the strikers to return to work, but the men out do not credit this assertion and are somewhat on the defensive as regards their tenement houses.

Little clusters of men and women sit about the mill district talking of the conditions and waiting for the mills to close.

"We feel that our women have been treated unfairly," said one operative.

"They get the hardest tasks in the mill and they are very poorly paid. We want things changed. That is the reason we are out. We do not wish to return, but all we ask for is fair treatment. We have no hard feelings against the owners—only we want our women to get a fair chance."

The condition of the strikers is a somewhat precarious one. They are poor—extremely poor. Many of them have very little besides a few pieces of worthless furniture and the clothes they wear.

Tenements in Good Condition.

People who have followed the situation say that the Thorndyke Manufacturing Company is looking for no repetition of the eviction in Ludlow a few years ago, which cost more than $150,000 and aroused the sympathy of the entire country for the strikers. They go so far as to say that it would cost the corporation more to evict the strikers than they could hope to regain in renting the tenements for years.

The average price per room in the Polish district is 80 cents a month, and as the average tenement consists of four rooms, the occupant pays less than $4 a month for his house. The strikers admit that they have no fault to find with the tenements or the rent. "Rent all right, job all right—but our women," said one man.

In contrast to the tenements of some mill corporations the buildings maintained by the Thorndyke Manufacturing Company in West Warren are models.

FIFTY HORSES RUN WILD AT STABLE BLAZE

Captain Clinton Bowley and a squad of policemen had a lively time today in a round-up of horses. There was a fire in a livery stable, and the horses had been rescued from the burning building, but escaped, and fifty of them ran wild over the district.

Patrolman Barrett was walking through Park street shortly after 1:30 a. m. when he discovered flames coming from the windows on the second floor of the two-story wooden stable, No. 123 Park street, owned by Elton F. Trumbull and occupied by Henry F. Payson. Patrolman Barrett broke open the stable and found the hayloft in flames.

He first thought of the Police Department saddle horse, a pet of Station 17, which was in a box stall there. Barrett went through the smoke to the stall and released and led out the pet of the policemen. Barrett succeeded in calling several citizens to his aid. One pulled in an alarm from box 262. Then came Sergt. Nixon and Patrolmen Cushing, Dolan and Scott, and with the aid of citizens they led out 40 horses.

13,000 MILE RACE, SINGAPORE TO HUB, STIRS WATERFRONT

Waterfront men today are talking with interest of the 13,000-mile race that ended in Boston harbor when the British steamer Burmese Prince nosed in just ahead of the City of Baroda, after both boats met for the first time since steaming out of Singapore harbor, bound for Boston.

Both vessels brought valuable cargoes, the total being worth $2,000,000 or more. A young stowaway will be sent back on the Burmese Prince. While the big freighter was at Celeo, Philippine Islands, one of the firemen ran amuck, stabbed Chief Engineer Ford and tried to kill Arthur Kitching, a guest on the ship.

BRANDT IN NEW YORK SILENT ON PARDON

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Foulke E. Brandt, ex-time valet of Mortimer L. Schiff, the rich New York banker and pardoned after serving nearly seven years of a thirty-year sentence for burglary, arrived here today under care of Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota. Brandt's future has not been determined, but he will "begin life over again in the West" after he concludes what kind of work offers the best opportunity.

"I cannot talk about my affairs," said Brandt. "That was one of the conditions a which Governor Sulzer granted me my freedom at Albany yesterday. I have given my word and shall not be rejected."

1500 MORE JOIN LOCAL GARMENT WORKERS' UNION

Fifteen hundred garment workers in the Greater Boston district have been obligated into the unions of their respective callings within the past six days. This increase in membership results from a determined effort by the union officials to completely organize the industry locally, preparatory to calling a general strike.

With 12,000 men, women and children employed in the ladies' garment-making branch of the industry, and almost 20,000 on men's garments, nearly fifty per cent. are organized in readiness for a strike order.

The greatest activity in this whirlwind organizing campaign is shown by the Ladies' Garment Workers' Council, with seven affiliated local unions, although the United Garment Workers' Council also is hard at work in the same direction.

Through "shop meetings" called at No. 31 Hanover street, and at the Women Trade Union League rooms on Warrenton street, nearly 400 thousand members have been added to the Ladies' Garment Working Union since its big meeting so greeted in Faneuil Hall last Sunday evening. Fully one-half of these new members are girls and women whose average wage for a year round is said to run from $4 to $4.85 a week, upon which sum some of them have to support themselves and dependent relatives.

In some respects the conditions under which men and women work are said to be worse than those in New York, where 160,000 garment workers are on strike.

Every trade union in this city has received today a circular appeal sent out by the Boston Central Labor Union on behalf of the New York strikers, reading as follows:

Brothers—There are thousands of men, women and children employed in the clothing industry on strike in New York city, for better conditions.

Even the clothing contractors admit that the tailoring industry is not fairly paid, people are working over seventy-two hours a week owing to the desperate competition between the contractors and the small pay as to be given out. The strikers are demanding that sub-contracting be discontinued and that the manufacturers be responsible for their own contractors as to hours of labor, sanitary conditions and wages.

The men, women and children have been on strike for three weeks and are determined to win. It is now coming to a point where financial assistance is needed most imperatively to keep this immense army of union toilers alive.

The Boston Central Labor Union, in issuing this circular, appeals to you to come to the assistance of these people in a generous manner and immediately. Brothers, remember, if these people lose their fight, it means that organized capital will immediately rally their forces and attack other trades, and it may be yours. Give this matter your serious attention and send the strikers a donation, be it big or little.

Send all monies to B. A. Lager, general secretary, United Garment Workers of America, No. 117 Bible House, New York city. N. J. and notify the Boston Central Labor Union of your action.

For the Boston Central Labor Union,

JAMES T. MORIARTY, President.

WOMEN IN RIOT BATTLE POLICE WITH HATPINS

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—With hatpins and umbrellas several hundred women fought the police today in one of the fiercest riots since the beginning of the garment workers' strike.

A score of policemen who tried to protect male strike-breakers was beaten back and blue. He arrested one woman, but she was rescued by her companions before he could get his prisoner to the station house. The police accomplished this only after reserves had been called and were beset on all sides by the battling garment workers.

Five women were arrested in this riot, and in another, which started when the police tried to break up a picket line around mattresses for the use of strike-breakers, fifty girls and women joined in the fight.

Between employers and workers will begin a proposition submitted by the manufacturers and accepted by the strikers. It includes increases in wages, recognition of the union and arbitration of all differences.

CHICAGO FACING GARMENT STRIKE

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Forty thousand garment workers may be called out on strike in Chicago next week in sympathy with the New York strikers.

GRAND FINISH IN BIG CONTEST COMES FEB. 28

By the CONTEST EDITOR.

Five weeks from next Friday!

The grand finish, the finale, the END of the AMERICAN'S great $40,000 competition comes on that day.

Where will YOU be when the final reckoning comes?

Now is the time to answer that question.

Today, tomorrow and every day for the next five weeks, let your answer be given loudly and boldly, with subscription votes.

TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS, the capital prize, is a sum of money sufficient to provide against any ordinary emergency which might arise in the course of a lifetime. It will furnish pleasure, happiness and luxury, too, for the fortunate candidate, who by his or her subscription effort wins it to five more weeks.

The contest is now at its most vital stage. With a new vote list appearing each Sunday it will be a battle of days instead of weeks. No candidate's position is now secure for longer than Sunday to Saturday of each week. Tomorrow's leader may be next Sunday's follower.

The vote list for Sunday, January 26, will be compiled up to and including next Monday, January 13, at 5:30 p. m. This will include any mail matter actually received at Contest Headquarters before that hour on Monday.

Tomorrow's Sunday AMERICAN will contain a record of the vote standing of each candidate who had to his or her credit over 5,000 votes up to and including last Saturday, January 11.

Another of the big 25-vote coupons appears tomorrow, so don't overlook any—they will help some in the final count.

The Contest Editor impresses this one fact on each candidate whose name is printed tomorrow—you are now in the prize-winning class, any three—but move up on the list—subscriptions will do it for you, and it is surprising what jumps you can make with their aid.

Remember, candidates, the prize list numbers ten hundred and one—18 value is $40,000.

What are you going to do about it?

BLOCK CROSSING; BOSTON & MAINE HALED TO COURT

LAWRENCE, Jan. 18.—The Boston & Maine Railroad has been summoned to appear in the local court to answer to the charge of obstructing grade crossing for more than five minutes at a time.

A summons was issued returnable today, but P. J. Leonard, chief clerk of the local Boston & Maine freight department, appeared before Judge J. F. Mahoney, in the local court today, and asked for a continuance until next Friday. This was granted. The road was not represented by counsel.

It is alleged that numerous complaints have been lodged against the road. While the law allows but a five-minute obstruction of transportation on grade crossings, it is claimed that the Boston & Maine have allowed cars to stand as long as twenty-five minutes.

City Solicitor D. J. Murphy pressed the matter for the city of Lawrence.

FIND 3 BOYS KILLED JAP AND TOOK HIS CASH

Three boys—Richard Powers, Jr., thirteen; Frank Carroll, fifteen, and Timothy Lacey, fifteen—on the stand in the Charlestown Juvenile Court today, confessed to Judge Bragg that two of them had attacked and robbed the Japanese who was found dying in an alley off Joiner street, Charlestown, last Tuesday night. Two of the boys divided up $8.11 they found in the dying man's pockets, and then all three fled.

Judge Bragg found them guilty of being delinquent children "in that they committed the crime of manslaughter." Young Powers was sent to the Lyman School for Boys at Westboro and Carroll and Lacey were committed to the Suffolk School for Boys on Rainsford's Island. The court efforts said the prisoners were the youngest ever in the court on so serious a charge.

LEARN TO COOK, BLOOMFIELD ADVISES GIRLS

Piemaking, frying doughnuts or putting together a cake that will make hubby shed tears of joy will probably be among the future housewife's leading cards if the prediction of Meyer Bloomfield, Boston's vocational head, comes true.

"It takes brains to be a good cook, but anyone can be an average lawyer or doctor," declared Mr. Bloomfield before the Woman's Forum at the New York Waldorf Astoria.

"In some cities there are splendid buildings for the domestic sciences. They take a high rank and there are even waiting lists of domestic science students.

"More money is being appropriated for the domestic science arts, predominant among which is cooking," continued Mr. Bloomfield. "Looking ahead into the future the woman who can possess a skilled knowledge of cooking will probably hold the 'domestic balance of power.' As an expert, her earning capacity will probably equal her husband's, and if hubby chooses to quarrel, his cook will be equipped to throw up her job at home and go out to work."

"I should like to see the poorer mothers pensioned so they would be able to give more time to their children. The children could stay at home and the mothers go to schools in the morning and then come home and practice what they learned.

"The teachers are the scapegoats of our misdoing. All the work the church, the home, and the industries have neglected, have been unloaded upon them. We don't equip them sufficiently, and we don't pay them enough. They have to do clerical work in the school which has no relation to pedagogy. They should do creating work, but they haven't the time. We must free our schools."

Mr. Bloomfield told of the laws in Wisconsin, which allowed the young people between the ages of fourteen and seventeen to work only eight hours a day and five hours out of every week to be given to industrial education at the employers' expense. In Ohio children at work are obliged to get a new health certificate every time they make a change in employment, to prevent their going into employments unsuited to them.

"In other States," he said, "when a boy with weak lungs goes to work at an outdoor newsstand he gets a new certificate, for that will be good work for him. But in two weeks he may lose his job and want to go into a factory where his health would suffer. There should be a compulsory physical examination every few months of such boys. Breakdowns would be avoided by this plan.

SUES GIRL HE SAYS BROKE A PROMISE MADE ON APRIL 1

The "April Fool" date figures in a bill filed in the Suffolk Superior Civil Court today by Thomas Vitale of Boston, who seeks to recover $2,500 from Miss Dianeova Testa, of the North End. Vitale declares he paid her that amount on April 1, 1912, on condition that she return to Italy. She is still here.

Whether the promise that Vitale says he received in return for the money was meant as an April Fool's joke Vitale does not attempt to say.

He says the girl also signed an agreement, releasing him from any further obligation to her. Instead of going to Italy, Vitale says, she invested $1,500 of the money in a mortgage note.

Vitale asks the court for an injunction restraining the mortgagor from collecting on or disposing of the note.

Any "Middle-Aged Venus" in Boston? Who Is She, Please?

Now comes an argument for the "Middle-aged Venus."

Recently the AMERICAN published a story that Miss Elsie Schoof of Brooklyn, N. Y., a student at Sage College for Women, Ithaca, N. Y., had most of the proportions of a Venus. Her measurements caused controversy.

The latest is a plea for a Venus of forty-six years, in the following communication from New York:

I wish to submit to you the measurements of a woman, aged forty-six, the two sets of figures being taken sixteen months apart, with some queries appended:

Height, 5.1.

Weight, 125½; 125½.

Neck, 12½; 12½.

Bust, 32; 33.

Waist, 22; 24½.

Hips, 35; 35½.

Thigh, 22; 22.

Calf, 14½; 14.

Ankle, 8¼; 8⅜.

Length of foot, 8¾.

Are not these measurements, taken at this age, more nearly indicative of what we call physical perfection than are those of women of the age of twenty-one; that is to say, are not women who have a faultless symmetry at twenty-one apt to be too stout twenty-five years later?

The above is not one of the vanities of women, but the proposition of one who would like to know. Also, do women really have, intrinsically, a physical perfection in their make-up, or is not the idea one of sex and what follows in its train?

I would like the opinion of painters, sculptors and anatomists. The fashion of the last few years have certainly revealed to us that the figures of most women are not beautiful, but, on the contrary, show some hideous defects.

But Boston and other New England cities have remained quiet. Surely New England has some perfect women. Who are they? Send the names, addresses, photographs and proportions to the AMERICAN. In a world-wide contest for physical perfection New England girls should take a conspicuous part.

ASK INQUEST FOR AMESBURY TRUNK VICTIM

AMESBURY, Jan. 18.—An inquest is to be asked in the strange death of Mrs. Charles Victorine, whose body was found in a trunk at the foot of her husband's bed.

While Chief of Police Rowell and the Amesbury officers have practically abandoned the case, the State police have not. There are certain phases they want to clear up. Chief Rowell of the town force, yielding to the popular clamor for an inquest, decided today he would ask for one. He is convinced himself that the case is nothing but a suicide. With the other Amesbury officers he followed the line of least resistance and clung to the suicide idea.

State Detective Arthur G. Wells today devoted himself to rounding up witnesses for the inquest. Here are some who may testify: Neighbors, who will tell of sounds of frequent quarreling in Victorine's house; Victorine, who may testify regarding certain idiosyncrasies of his wife, most important of them a habit she had of hiding herself from him, even before in a trunk; police to whom Victorine reported the disappearance of his wife, and Professor Whitney of Harvard to whom the contents of the woman's stomach was sent for examination and Medical Examiner Murphy.

May Call Lock Experts.

Lock experts, it is believed, may figure prominently in the case. It is believed they will be called on to examine the lock and give their opinion as to how long it had been broken. Why this has not been done before is a question many are asking today.

An examination of the lock would probably prove two things: Whether the lock was broken after the cover had been shut down over the woman on her face, and how it was broken.

This would go a long ways toward clearing up the case. If he found that the lock had been broken some time it would corroborate the husband's story that the wife could have extricated herself easily. If found that it had been freshly broken it would add an important piece of evidence. The police have been baffled thus far in any attempt to prove foul play. They are hunting for a motive. Thus far they have been unable to find any. Lack of evidence of violence also presents a baffling barrier.

Make Probe Thorough.

While State Detective Wells pressed his investigations today, the town police barely raised a finger. They confided they can practically closed. They have had the contents of the woman's stomach preserved and have asked District Attorney Atwill of Salem for an inquest, merely to satisfy the public demand.

The State police are determined, however, to clear up the several mysterious aspects that remain before they pronounce it a case of suicide, as have the Amesbury officers.

How to Avoid Serious Kidney and Bladder Trouble

The serious forms of kidney or bladder disease, such as Bright's disease, chronic rheumatism or dread diabetes, can be easily avoided if taken in time. The following simple formula should be taken as soon as first symptoms are noticed: Get six ounces (one pint) of Pinex, and add to it one-half ounce Murax Compound and one-half ounce Red Clover Extract. Take one or two teaspoonfuls of this mixture after each meal and at bed time. It quickly stops back pains, rheumatic pains in the joints, dizziness and other well known indications which show weakness of these much worked organs. The ingredients of this formula can be had in any well stocked drug store and are easily mixed. Be sure to use good pure gin, also the genuine Murax Compound, which comes only in sealed wooden tubes, as any substitute will not give such good results.

Well, They Do Come Back: Here's Lambert 'Late' of Cambridge

James B. Lambert, the "suicide author," who some days ago resigned on his widely heralded plan to kill himself, and wrote to the papers following unsuccessful attempts of his "literary executors" to sell some of his manuscripts, has returned to Cambridge.

Having decided to tarry yet awhile in this vale of tears, Lambert found that Lowell, where he had sequestered himself to allow the sensation of his purported death to abate—pailed on him.

Lambert sent word from Lowell to the AMERICAN that he was not dead, but writing, something like ten days ago. Now he has come back to Cambridge, and finds that the old home looks just the same as it did before he went away. He saunters along Broadway, responding to a friend's greeting and recalling the fact, "A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country." He had great fun "dying," but it didn't net him a cent.

When he disappeared, Lambert left five stories behind. These were to be sold at auction to the highest bidder, said highest bidder having to bid at least $1,000. When the auction was held, the highest bidder was $990 below the limit set. Lambert also left his job in the piano factory, he was so keyed up over "dying."

Helen Gould's Trousseau To Cost But $1,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Beautiful old-fashioned purples in silk and satin and half a dozen varying shades of gray are the predominating, and in fact almost the only shades in the wedding trousseau of Miss Helen Miller Gould who, on Wednesday, will become the bride of Finley J. Shepard—that is barring the wonderful wedding gown, a splendid creation in ivory white satin trimmed with rose point lace.

Simplicity in cut and modesty in price so emphasize the coming preparations of the bride to be that Gould millions, that along Broadway dressmakers and milliners are up in arms. The furor of economy that seems to have struck so many wealthy brides recently is declared to be disheartening.

The modistes have not forgotten that Madeline Force, who married the late John Jacob Astor, paid less than $1,000 for her trousseau. Miss Gould's trousseau, it is said, will come well below that figure. The lace which adorns the wedding gown, though very old and rare, is a wedding gift to the bride. The gown is cut with a court train, and a beautiful rose point veil will completely cover it.

Miss Helen Taft to Re-enter Bryn Mawr on Leaving Capital

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Helen Taft expects to take up her interrupted college course at the completion of her father's term at the White House and re-enter Bryn Mawr. Miss Taft would have graduated in this year's class had not her mother's health necessitated her shorting the social duties at the capital.

Since leaving college, Miss Taft has devoted a part of every morning keeping up with her studies.

She won the first prize in a competitive examination the month in which her father was nominated for President.

BRANDEGEE USES GLOVES TO OPEN MAIL FOR CLEW

In an effort to trap the blackmailer who demanded $2,000 on penalty of harm to himself or his step-daughter, Miss Margaret Sprague, Edward D. Brandegee, the millionaire proprietor of Faulkner Farm, is opening his mail with tweezers, while wearing gloves, so that photographs may be made of the blackmailer's finger prints if he writes again.

This plan was suggested by W. A. Gaston, Mr. Brandegee's counsel, who has already followed it with regard to the threatening letters already received. These were dusted with fine black dust to make the finger marks stand out; photographed and the photographs sent to the Bureau of Criminal Identification.

Mr. Brandegee, wearing gloves, now divides his mail into two piles, one of letters known to be normal and the other of letters that seem suspicious. Then, in opening the letters in the second pile he withdraws the contents by means of the tweezers, thus not smudging any possible finger prints. If there is any possibility of a letter having been written by the black mailer he sends it to Mr. Gaston.

An attempt has also been made to find the blackmailer by tracing the paper in which the letter threats were written. So far it has been fruitless.

The strictest secrecy has been maintained regarding the case, both by Mr. Brandegee and Mr. Gaston. A corps of detectives had been working on the case, investigating every clew, guarding the family and shadowing suspects thought to be implicated in the case.

All efforts have failed to secure the arrest of the principals. Since the escape of the man and the boy who secured the "fake" express package under the eyes of the police and detectives, nothing definite has been found out about the case.

WIFE OF THE NEXT PRESIDENT OF THE FRENCH REPUBLIC

Madame Poincare.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—The French cabinet, headed by Premier Raymond Poincare, who was elected President of France yesterday, resigned today. This action was taken so that M. Poincare would not be embarrassed by parliamentary debate before he takes the presidential chair next month.

Announcement of the resignations followed a conference of President Falliéres with his advisers in the Elysee Palace.

M. Briand, Minister of Justice, was spoken of as the most likely man to succeed M. Poincare in the premiership.

"The President-elect will be too busy preparing to take up the duties of his new office to continue as Premier," said M. Klotz, Minister of Finance. "In addition, his friends feel that he should not be embarrassed by parliamentary debate before February 17."

M. Poincare today received many messages of congratulation, including several from the United States.

A brilliant social regime is promised during the administration of President Poincare. The "first lady" of the French republic delights in the gayety of society, and during the two years, when many of the ruling monarchs of Europe will visit Paris, she will have ample opportunity to gratify her love of social display. As the President's wife, she is the social dictator of France.

NELLA BERGEN NO MORE MRS. HOPPER

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Justice Scudder has granted an interlocutory decree of divorce to Mrs. Nella Bergen Hopper from DeWolf Hopper, the musical comedy star, now playing an engagement in the West. Mr. Hopper offered no defence to the charge of misconduct made by his wife, the fourth to bear his name, and the action went by default.

MIRON AND WIFE TO LIVE APART; HOUSE FOR HER

An agreement signed by Mrs. Julia L. Miron of Boston and her husband, Joseph C. Miron, a comic opera singer, has resulted in the dismissal of the husband's divorce libel, which has been pending two years. Miron and his wife agreed to live separately, without claim on each other or each other's property.

By the agreement Miron is given the custody of the children. A double house and land on Pine Hill avenue, Roxbury, valued at $6,000, is given Mrs. Miron, who is to be allowed to communicate with all the children at any reasonable time, and to entertain the children during one-half of every vacation and on such holidays as may be agreed on.

Mr. Miron agrees that he will not remove the children from Massachusetts, except to Thompson, Ct., at any time without consent in writing.

The divorce petition of Mr. Miron charged continued habits of intoxication and infidelity. Mr. Miron paid alimony of $75 a month until four months ago, when the allowance was reduced to $50.

Mr. and Mrs. Miron were married in Boston, March 2, 1895. She was Miss Louise Kearns, daughter of Dr. Patrick Kearns.

Two of the Miron children, Mary Louise, eighteen, and Joseph C., Jr., sixteen, are in Boston, studying music. Antoinette Cecelia, eight, and Esther Athelle, six, are pupils at Notre Dame Academy in Putnam, Ct., and Antonio Pastor Miron, four, lives in Webster.

APPEALS TO MOTHERS TO CLING TO BABIES IN SPITE OF POVERTY

Miss Mary C. Jarrett, Supervisor of the Inquiry and Social Service Department of the Boston Children's Aid Society, in discussing today the offer of two hundred more Boston mothers to give away their children into good homes, declared every mother should cling to her children to the last.

She related pathetic stories of men and women who had come to her seeking mothers who in their infancy and given them away.

"I speak to young mothers," said Miss Jarrett, "I speak to you young mothers of New England who feel that from poverty or other reason you must give up your babies for adoption. In the name of humanity I ask you to think long before you do any such thing. Your child may never forgive you. It may years and years to know its real and true mother, and when it finds itself, as too often is done, neglected and forsaken by its foster parents, it may have curses for the mother who deserted it.

In Vain Seek Mother.

"A few days ago a young man came into our office to ask a question familiar to us, 'Who is my mother?' he asked. 'And tell me where she is.'

"We were unable to tell him. He gave a dissatisfied look, broke down and wept.

"'Here I am,' he sobbed, 'a strong-able-bodied man and well prepared to support my mother and she has apparently deserted me.'

"This is but one of the many cases we have. Men and women come trying to learn something about their parents.

"Judge Baker of the Juvenile Court and other judges will tell you that the girls and boys who come up before the court for discipline and correction are in many cases children who have been escaped by women who lost interest in them when they ceased to have the 'fetching' baby ways.

"A real mother would count me to love, but the foster parents rarely have the same feeling as the true parents. There are many, many cases where adoption has been a failure. This fact is so well recognized today by Massachusetts that nearly all of the agencies dealing with children use their influences against adoption and in favor of keeping families together.

Advice to Mothers.

"Do you mothers want help? Do you mothers need assistance to find work? Or a place where you can board your baby and where you can often visit it? Do you need a friend on whom you can depend when the road ahead seems dark and hopeless?

"Come to us at No. 42 Hawkins street and we shall be glad to work out a plan with you whereby you will not have to give up your baby. Go to Miss Cheney of the Babies' Hospital, at No 42 Hawkins street. Go to Father Scanlon of the Catholic Bureau of Charities at No. 43 Tremont street. Then there are the trustees for the minor wards of the State House, in room No. 45. Then you will find friends at No. 42 M. Vernon street, where Miss E. C. C. is ready with the helping hand.

"The problem of the baby not wanted, which the AMERICAN has been treating in its last few issues, is one of the most tragic and most pressing problems in this community. It is our shame and disgrace that we have not already regarded with a loathing a bartering in human beings impossible.

Make Father Help.

"The mother who feels that, because of lack of support from the baby's father, she must give the child up, should be helped by having the command put on the father to bear his share of the burden.

"Removing children from their mothers, for any reason other than gross neglect or inability to care for them, should be made impossible. The mother in the separation process loses an opportunity for a great moral victory, and her baby is deprived of the care and devotion very difficult for others to give.

"It is the duty of the State and the private societies treating mothers and children to advise with them and to take them over the dangerous places."

MANY PATHETIC LETTERS ASKING TO ADOPT BABIES

The AMERICAN continues to receive scores of pathetic letters from husbands and wives who are willing to take into their homes and hearts the babies told about in last Sunday's AMERICAN. Here are a few of the letters received:

Wants a Little Girl.

In regard to those children mentioned in the Sunday AMERICAN, I would like to get a girl between two and four years of American parentage. I have three children—two boys and one girl. One is sixteen years old, another thirteen and a little girl eleven. I would like to hear from you and where I can see some of the children. I am a Catholic. I can give reference.

Admirable.

Here is a Boy Wanted.

I saw in the AMERICAN five babies to be given away. I would like to adopt a little boy. I have children. I am the mother of a girl seven. She is too big to call a baby now, she is married. I am an Irish Catholic. I would give a little one a good home, be good to it, give to a good bringing up and good education. If some poor mother will give their little one to me, I will take it to my heart as my own. I would like Baby N, if it is a little boy.

Will the AMERICAN kindly inform me all about it, and if I can get it without leaving home. I would like to have it sent to me, for I can't leave home very well. If I could not get Baby N, I would take Baby R. But I would like to have Baby N. If you send him to me, let me know how old he is and if he has got a name. I would like to adopt him by papers. If you send him, let me know when to expect him.

Lawiston, Me.

Wants Baby X.

I wrote you Sunday about wanting to adopt Baby X, and have received no reply.

Am very anxious for the child and would give it a lovely home and a good education. I would take good care of the child, as I have brought up a daughter of my own and she is a lovely young lady. My husband and I are both lonesome without a little child in the house, and we would take great pleasure in one.

I want a child of American parents and about two years old.

I asked you to send Baby X. in my last letter, by some responsible person. Now if you will promise me the child, I'll send my husband after the child. I would dearly love Baby X., but if there is no chance of my obtaining her and there is another beautiful girl of two years old, kindly inform me and also the child's parents of my intentions, so they will write to me.

Please answer this letter immediately.

Northampton, Mass.

Sends Kisses to Baby.

I have long wanted a nice baby to comfort me. I have been married a short time and could make a good home for a child like Frank Gordon.

Ever since I saw his picture in the Sunday AMERICAN I have been just wild about him. My husband also took quite a fancy to him. I send my love and kisses. I should like very much to see him in person.

Please write and let me know when I can see him and we will be there. For I love the dear little child.

Avon.

Home for Little Frank.

Page 38 in Sunday's AMERICAN interests me so much that I write for further particulars in regard to little Frank Gordon. Will you kindly tell me where he may be seen, if full surrender could be obtained, and so forth?

We could no give him wealth, but we could give a happy, comfortable and cheerful home, with the necessary education and environment for the making of a good citizen.

Thanking you in advance for your interest in the matter, I am

Springfield, Mass.

Would Like Baby G.

I saw a new story in the Sunday AMERICAN. I have been married five years and have no children. I would really like to have Baby G. I would treat him as I would my own. Please send back and tell me if I can have it. And please tell me the address of Baby G.

Woonsocket, R. I.

Seeks a Baby Girl.

Please send me a few addresses of women who will give their babies away. I would like to have a baby girl, age over two years. I have been married over seven years and I would love a baby dearly. Please answer at once.

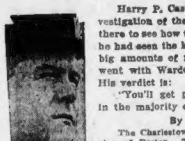
FOOD IN STATE PRISON PURER THAN IN HOTELS, SAYS EXPERT CASSIDY



Harry P. Cassidy today tells the story of his investigation of the Charlestown State Prison. He went there to see how the food supply was arranged. After he had seen the kitchen and heard the figures of the big amounts of food served daily in the prison, he went with Warden Bridges over the whole prison. His verdict is:

"You'll get purer food in the State Prison than in the majority of hotels, or food stores, in Boston."

By HARRY P. CASSIDY.

The Charlestown State Prison is the pure food champion of Boston. The food served to the prisoners is purer —freer from drugs and medications of various kinds, than the food served in the hotels of Boston, or the food you can purchase in the stores.

I would rather confine myself to prison fare for a year than eat foods adulterated as those samples I purchased in order to make the difference in the food eaten.

The prison kitchen, in the first place, is scrupulously clean. I saw fish chowder being made, saw bread being kneaded and prepared for baking, by men clean shaven daily, their nails well manicured, and saw preserves being cooked for the supper time treat.

The prisoners each have their aluminum dish or plate. They receive these, full, from the kitchen, and take them to their cells. Each prisoner eats in his cell. This is Warden Bridges' way of considering the feelings of his prisoners. There is not a man who would vote to have meals in a central dining room, the warden believes.

Specimen menus from this prison have often been printed. Sunday usually means an especially good meal —frankfurts, or baked fish, or hamburg steak, or roast beef. The warden is a wise man. He adapts his menu to the season. He buys always the foods that can be bought cheapest, and at the same time of the best quality. There's many a housewife who could improve her table 50 per cent. by this simple plan of buying in season.

Buys in Big Quantities.

The warden must know his business, for he buys in big quantities. Seven hundred pounds of flour is a one-meal ration for his eight hundred guests. Five hundred pounds of hamburg steak is another order—in each case, for a single meal. And the warden doesn't buy the ready made hamburg that may contain scraps and dyed and colored with "preservaline" a pleasant little concoction that reddens the meat, but kills the red corpuscles in your blood.

The warden buys his meat and has it ground into hamburger. His other purchases bear the same stamp of cleanliness, care and purity.

Monday is baked bean day in the prison. The beans are baked in the old New England fashion. The pots are bigger than the one you use at home. Each will hold three gallons. It takes six to eight bushels of beans for a meal. The pork is another big item. It takes fifteen or sixteen pots to supply the prison.

Other items on the bill of fare for a week are bologna, hash, New England boiled dinners, beef stew, pea soup, with vegetables, and always with bread and cocoa, tea or coffee. A ration of any one of these is more than the average man can eat. The aluminum dish in which the serving is given is as big around as a soup plate, and the sides are perpendicular and over an inch high. The dish will hold close to a quart of liquid. I should estimate, and it is served with heaping helpings.

One Day's Menu.

Fish chowder was the order of the day when I visited the prison. Fish chowder, boiled potatoes, bread and coffee. The chowder was served in these aluminum dishes, and at least a pint to each man. I ate some of it. It was as good as the fish chowder served at your hotels here.

The same rule of purity and cleanliness run through all the work of preparing the food. The food is cooked by steam in huge copper kettles and in ovens. All utensils are kept scrupulously clean. The kitchen itself is spotless—the brick floor giving evidences of daily scrubbings.

I was interested in the whole prison. The food department satisfied me that it was conscientiously conducted. I saw the shops and the cells and the schoolroom and every department of the prisoners' daily life as a testimonial to the interest and the advanced thought and ideas of the warden. I had never met General Bridges. He is a man worth knowing. They tell me he has been attacked, and that the prison management has been attacked.

"Prison Is a Model."

Compared with any other prison I have ever seen, the Charlestown prison is a model. I should prefer living in the darkest or smallest cell in the regular prison wards to living in some of the inside bedrooms of your reputable hotels. The prison so far excels the average tenement house or three-decker in cleanliness, healthfulness and general neatness that there is no comparison.

But after all the food department is my province. And I repeat, I would prefer the prison fare to the fare at some of your best hotels in Boston.

WELSH RAREBIT BAD AS BENZOATE, SAYS PHYSICIAN

Here's bad news for the Dainty Young Thing who fusses around a chafing dish.

"Welsh rarebit is the most injurious substance a person can eat," according to Dr. Francis G. Benedict, director of the Carnegie Nutrition Laboratory. He believes it is even worse than small quantities of benzoate of soda and borax and boric acid. The only difference one can achieve a welsh rarebit from a carelit, whereas benzoate of soda does not spur the sleeper's imagination.

Dr. Benedict ridiculed food faddists from Fletcher down in a talk at the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy. He declared vegetarians, although they might not indulge in a meat diet, were doing their best to imitate the taste and smell of it.

"Man is carnivorous and is at his best only when he lives on a meat diet," said Dr. Benedict, "notwithstanding the fact that there are exceptions to this rule. Of course, moderation in a meat diet produces the best results. We are becoming a nation of cranks."

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

Poultry prices are lower than they have been for several months. Young chickens are selling for twenty-five cents a pound today in the Boston markets, fancy fowls sell for twenty-three and best dry packed turkeys for thirty. English pheasants sell for $3 a pair.

Amid the rising prices of meats, lamb continues on a level scale of prices that has hardly varied for months, fore quarters sell today for 12 cents a pound and legs of young lamb for fifteen to eighteen.

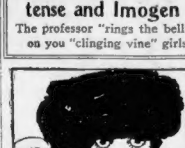
Butter is selling for thirty to thirty-four cents. Eggs, as fallen twenty cents since Christmas, but the indications are for a rise.

Apples are very cheap for this season. Fancy Baldwins that have been kept in cold storage and are as fine today as the day they came from the orchard are selling for $2.25 to $4 a barrel. Extra packed No. 1 Baldwins sell for $2.50 a barrel.

Florida strawberries sold today in the commission houses as low as thirty cents a box.

Goodnight --- Gwendolyn, Likewise Hortense and Imogen

The professor "rings the bell" on you "clinging vine" girls.



(A Chicago professor says the day of the "Clinging Vine" type of girl is over.)

A clinging vine won't make a bed,
A clinging vine won't bake the bread;
You never saw one at a tub
And heard its rhythmic, steady scrub;
A clinging vine gets lazy, fat
(There's not much nourishment in that!);
Give me the girl with biceps fine,
And you can keep your clinging vine!

CO-OPERATIVE STORE LEADER ON FOOD BUYING

By SYBIL WARNE.

Mrs. Joseph Linden Smith of No. 93 Mt. Vernon street, one of the directors of the new co-operative store in the Back Bay district, is very sanguine over this method to fight the high cost of living. For several weeks past Mrs. Smith and other Back Bay ladies have been holding conferences over plans to cheapen the prices of food commodities.

A few meetings were held, and though a co-operative store at No. 20 Lime street in charge of Miss Marie Pulton was in existence, the directors of this small enterprise felt that a larger movement should be started. It is hoped that 150 members will be soon enrolled in this new co-operative plan the next month.

Mrs. Smith believes that a co-operative store will teach matters, besides cheapening of the food supply. It will get the housekeeper interested in the personal purchase of food.

Housekeeping has become more or less a science, according to Mrs. Smith. So every woman should give more personal attention to the subject of food supplies.

These Are Mrs. Smith's Maxims.

Know what food to purchase.

Know the prices of every article of food that enters your home.

Know your housekeeping as your husband is supposed to know his business.

Avoid leakages.

Fight high prices but fight with co-operation.

Talking of the co-operative store, Mrs. Smith says:

This new co-operative store will be an intelligent way of getting closer to the prices which we have been compelled to pay, and as the buyers of food stuff are all more or less combined, it certainly would be to the interests of the consumer to combine also.

Many of us have talked of this co-operative store for some time, and the longer we study it the plainer becomes the need of these stores.

We believe that we can save money. In Rochdale, England, they have accomplished much, and while it would not do for us to follow the English plan too closely, yet we believe that there is a good chance of success along many lines of the English co-operative system right here in Boston.

It is very desirable that we should try our plan and the plan is simply this: To have as many as 150 families pay $5 each and become regular co-operators in the store. All those who pay the organization fee will be entitled to quarterly dividends upon what they purchase, and as high as 10 per cent. is promised.

Details of the Plan.

Now, besides this part of the plan, it will bring the mistress of the house into a better acquaintance with the cost of the products that she is using.

Every housekeeper should know the price of every article of food and not order unascertainably over the telephone.

In fact, I would say, go to the stores. Get familiar in more ways than one with every article of food consumed in the house.

How many of us simply know an article of food by name and could not tell what it cost if we were asked that question. We have just gone along and ordered it because we needed it.

This co-operative store will cause its directors to study food values more.

We have studied these food values pretty thoroughly as to their muscle producing effect, but how many have gone into the question why should this article of food cost so much today when three years ago it did not cost the present price.

Every intelligent housekeeper must face this question and other questions of a similar nature. So this co-operative store will help to get into closer relations with the prices of food. Besides this, we will find out which is the best way to buy food. Some of the old methods must be discarded.

Harriman Directors Disagree Over Sale of Central Pacific

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—A lively dispute appears to be brewing among the directors of the Harriman lines regarding the Central Pacific, which is the part of the Southern Pacific desired by the Union Pacific.

According to a director of the Union Pacific, there is a wide difference between valuations placed on Central Pacific stock by the Union Pacific and by the Southern Pacific directors and this makes the problem of distribution more difficult.

H. W. DeForrest has handed in his resignation as a director of the Union Pacific. He will remain as a director and member of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific.

Mill Men Backing Bill to Keep "Kiss of Death" Shuttle

The mill men are still fighting to retain the "Kiss of Death" shuttle. A year ago special legislation was passed ordering the shuttles in question out of the mills, and a certain length of time was allowed for the change.

Since then the mill men have had an extension, and only a short while ago they were asking for a further extension from the district police on the ground they were doing the best they could.

Now they have filed a bill which provides that they may use the shuttle if the operatives are provided with a device for threading it so they won't have to use their mouths and suck the thread through.

The bill providing for this was read in the House and assigned to a committee for a hearing.

ARNOLD LAWSON BUYS BULLDOGS COSTING $20000

LONDON, Jan. 18.—When Arnold Lawson, son of Thomas W. Lawson of Boston, sails for America next week he will take with him what is probably the most valuable collection of champion bulldogs that ever crossed the Atlantic. Although the young sportsman refused today to state the exact amount paid for the collection he said it would probably approach $20,000.

Lawson's trip to Europe was not solely for the purpose of buying dogs. He came to Londinos for his father primarily, he said, "but father told me if I found any exceptionally fine specimens of English bull dogs to purchase them for our kennels at Dreamweld." He added:

"To say that I was successful would be putting it rather mildly," said Mr. Lawson. "For I can say without fear of contradiction that I am taking back with me the best bred bulldogs in England, if not the best in Europe.

RILEY'S COLUMN

LUTHER McCARTY has a chance to acquire a belt-handed title to the championship of all championships without ever drawing a head on the Big Ace. Tom O'Rourke, manager for Al Palzer, says that Jack Johnson has agreed to fight Palzer "for the world's championship" on the night of June 25—the eve of the Grand Prix race. If the fight takes place and Johnson beats Palzer, the black man will still hold the world's title that he won from Burns and Jeffries. But, if Palzer defeats Johnson, how can O'Rourke claim the title for his man. About the best he could acquire would be a claim to another "go" with McCarty and, pending such a possible match, McCarty would become world's champion, in the popular estimation, and the Big Ace would forthwith become a second-rate "ex-champ."

* * *

O'ROURKE says that Johnson accepted terms offered by Al Lippe, the American promoter who has been arranging French matches for a few years. According to O'Rourke's statement, Lippe offered the winner 60 per cent. of the gate receipts, with a guarantee of $30,000.

* * *

UNLESS Jack Johnson's comeback has been seriously dented—smashed almost to the point of extermination, in fact—Johnson would not agree to take a chance at $30,000. He would demand a guarantee of that much or more, win, lose or draw. If O'Rourke is correctly informed—or is not using a bunch of talk for advertising purposes—it may be concluded that Johnson either figures Palzer "easy money" or he's nearly "broke."

* * *

AL PALZER is no fighter. He is a second-rate heavyweight. Only ability to stand terrific and constant punishment saved him through eighteen rounds of battering at Vernon. He has a punch, but he has not the nimbleness of foot or of body to place it on a good man's anatomy. The sole value of a fight between him and Johnson would be to show whether or not "Li'l Archie" has gone back and, if so, how far.

* * *

IT would surprise nobody to see Johnson soundly beaten by almost any big fellow with a punch. A man who has hit the high places as often and as long as Johnson has would hardly be fit to race around a prize ring for an hour or so, to say nothing of scrapping with a husky heavyweight, too. If Johnson can "come back" after more than two years of dissipation he's different from most men. Nearly every young man thinks he can hold the pace that no other man could—wherefore nearly every young man is a fool. Johnson never showed that he could go farther and faster than the rest.

* * *

EDDIE CICOTTE, the late lamented knuckle ball expert of the Red Sox, who was accounted a "hold-out" two weeks ago, has signed President Comiskey's contract with the White Sox, and will be seen out there hurling "knuckle balls" this Spring.

* * *

GEORGE LOBICH has gone to the Heaven of all wrestlers—we mean Chicago—where he will meet Dr. Roller Monday night. After that, of course, he will insist on taking on Zbyszko. As an argument he recalled to Jack Herman, the Pole's manager, several matches he had won from Zbyszko in Europe. "All right," said Herman. "That may go for Europe, but not here. You go out, lick a few of these Americans, get a reputation and you'll find me in the meantime, we're going to stick to Sleteh's heels until we get a match."

* * *

MORE woe to the sport writers. Stanislaus Zbyszko has a brother. His name is Windeck. He made his first American appearance on the mat at Chicago last night when he met Alexander Angeloff. Our idea of some name is Zbyszko and our idea of good legislation is a law that will kick two "z"s out of it.

Johnson and Lynch Both Want to Sign O'Day as Umpire

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Hank O'Day is not yet a big league umpire, and from what happened here the veteran is not at all certain whether he will come back with his pad and mask. President Lynch of the National League sought out the former manager of the Reds, spoke to him about signing, offered a flattering contract, and then had to hop a train to return to New York without the O'Day signature in his pocket.

O'Day excused himself for not wishing to sign up with the National League right away by saying that he was not ready to decide the matter. Lynch had been under the impression that he would have no trouble in getting O'Day back on his staff of arbiters. He even thought Hank would welcome a contract with open arms, but there was none of this, and Lynch is now aware of the fact that he will have to come through with a big piece of coin if he hopes to get O'Day away from the American League.

Now that O'Day has fully determined to refuse to return to his old job. The impression seems to prevail that he will decide to cast his lot with the American League. At one time O'Day umpired for Ban Johnson when the latter was president of the Western League, and he is not at all averse to returning to his old boss, especially when a fluttering salary is a certainty.

Amateur Games

The Page class basketball five plays the U. S. S. North Carolina at the Vine Street Hall, Roxbury, tonight. The Page class has not lost a home game this season and is confident of keeping up its good work. The game will be preceded by two preliminary contests in which the Page class second team, West End House, Roxbury Neighborhood House and some other strong team will figure.

* * *

The East Boston Gym basketball team is open to meet all comers in the 115-pound class. Manager John Kelly is at a loss to find out why it is so hard to arrange games. Apparently the other teams of this class are dodging his challenges.

* * *

The Riverdale A. C. of the West End will play any seventy seventy-five-pound basketball team in Greater Boston, the Roxbury Neighborhood preferred. Manager Samuel A. Smith, No. 41 Leverett street, city.

* * *

The N. Y. P. A. team would like to book games for Thursday evenings with 130-pound teams in Greater Boston. Manager Francis Craft, Box No. 254, Needham.

LURICH IS NOW ONLY REAL FOE FOR GIANT POLE

By ED W. SMITH.

What is Jack Herman going to do for big matches now for his Polish gladiator, the mighty Zbyszo?

The Pole eliminated one of the very greatest of the American heavyweights when he smashed Charley Cutler into a hopeless defeat, and there is no indication that any of the other native wrestlers have any more business with him than had Cutler.

Frank Gotch has become the Sphinx of Humboldt, and Mahmout, behind whom Gotch for a season continued his retirement policy, is entirely missing. So what's the use?

Lurich May Be Good One.

Looming up pretty well and looking as if, on record and appearance, he might turn out to be something worth while, comes George Lurich, the Russo-German, perhaps the highest priced athletic performer in all of Europe, and a man who is widely known in this country among the foreign-born for his great feats of Greco-Roman strength in European tournaments.

Lurich hasn't demonstrated much so far in this country, his opponents have been for the most part only near top-notchers as befits a man who is yet to get over his new legs. But the athlete evidently comes rightly by all of the reputation he has on the other side.

He is a remarkably fine built man of 220 pounds and just about the right size to make an ideal champion among the catch-as-catch-can artists.

He Is a Great Showman.

Thus, in looking over the field for men to stop the onward rush of the famous Polish star, we are presented with only this man from Russia, born of German parents and whose name is a household word in all of Europe, synonymous of all that is great in muscular skill.

Lurich is what they term a great showman. He is much for display and certainly can "catch" a crowd about as quick as any man that ever came from the other side.

He can take an opponent of only ordinary skill and make a bout look decidedly interesting, always showing that he is the master, but at all times giving the spectators a run for their coin.

In this respect he differs vastly from any of his predecessors from Europe. Mahmout, while among the greatest of the great wrestlers, gave little satisfaction when it came to mere matters of display.

It was only when matched against a worthy foe that Mahmout became Mahmout.

The statuesque Hackenschmidt was more on the lines of a showman, but was dignified and stately and seldom stooped to buffoonery like grimacing for the benefit of the gallery.

Zbyszo, also a wonderful wrestler, is a mere plodder when it comes to exhibition stuff. In a dead level match he wrestles earnestly and with a singleness of purpose that is amazing.

His affair with Cutler was absolutely on the square. Cutler thought he had a chance and Zbyszo went in to convince him. The Pole cared not one whit what the crowd said or thought of him.

He went in to win, and win he did, if not gracefully, at least with a great deal of convincing zeal.

Zbyszo must be beaten. If Gotch will not come out of his hawkeye shell and see what can be done in the matter we must look elsewhere.

Has Beaten the Pole.

Lurich has beaten the Pole at Graeco-Roman several times. Whether he is good enough at the American style remains to be seen.

In the meantime, Mr. Gotch, couldn't you really be induced?

REFUSE TO GRANT COLBY'S REQUEST

The Maine colleges appear to be in league to ruffle the patience of Colonel Billings of the B. A. A., who has had his troubles arranging the details of the B. A. A. games to be held February 8. Yesterday, when everything seemed to be rosy, the colonel received a letter from Colby College informing him that it would not run against Bates, but would race against Bowdoin or Holy Cross.

"Tell Colby it will have to run Bates or not at all," said the colonel to Manager George Brown.

WANT MORE ENTRIES IN 135-POUND CLASS

The Cambridge A. A. would like to hear from a few more 135-pound amateur boxers who would like to compete at its show on next Thursday night. Entries can be made to John McLean, No. 371 Cambridge street, Cambridge.

SIDELIGHTS ON SPORTS

By A. H. C. MITCHELL

IT must have been perfectly dreadful for Davy Jones, the Detroit left fielder, last Summer. In fact, it must have been simply horrid. To think that that awful Hughey Jennings should have abused Davy so badly. Hurry, Lucille, the smelling salts!

Hughey should have known better. Davy is such a sensitive little thing. Always so indrlike. It is related that in a game Tim Hurst was umpiring some years ago he called a strike on Davy that did not please that player.

"Goodness gracious, Mr. Hurst," he said to the arbitrator, "I think you are just as mean as you can be!"

"Play ball, Davy," growled Hurst, "or I'll take one of those hatpins out of your hair and stab you on the wrist!"

FRANK CHANCE wants to cut out the nicknames applied to his team. He doesn't like Highlanders, Yankees, Kitties, Hillmen, and so on. He believes simple, little, old New York is good enough for anyone. In a way he is right. Nicknames of ball teams are invented by baseball writers to lend a touch of gaiety to their narratives. They are not always necessary, but they come in handy.

In big league towns, where there are National as well as American League teams, however, nicknames are almost a necessity. For example, in writing of the Cubs, a baseball reporter finds it hard to call them the Chicago National League team every time the club is mentioned. He cannot call them simply the Chicagos, because there is another Chicago team to be reckoned with.

But in the case of Chance's team the term New York could well be used because the National League team in that city is invariably called the Giants. The Giants derived their name in the old days, when they had such big men on the roster as Ewing, Connor, Keefe, Crane, Brown, Gore and others.

SOMETIMES the club officials do not like the names tacked on their teams by the newspaper men. In Washington the management objected to the word "Senators." So they asked the newspaper men to change it. A committee of reporters was selected for the purpose of digging up a more appropriate name. After deep thought the committee selected "Nationals," and asked that in future the "Senators" be forgotten for the new nickname.

Now, it is all right to call them the Nationals in Washington, where there is only one big team, but in Boston, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and St. Louis, where there are two big league teams, the name "Nationals," as applied to the Washington team, conveys a wrong impression; or, rather, it is confusing because most readers think the National League team is referred to. So nobody paid any attention to the request from Washington, and the team is called the "Senators," just as it always was.

IF Stallings can swap Vin Campbell for Josh Devore of the Giants let us all pray that he pulls the deal. It is doubtful if the new manager of the Boston Nationals has gone much further than expressing the wish that he could make the trade. Perhaps it is simply a feeler to see how Boston takes it. Well, if this humble little column meets the manager's eye he will know how at least one Boston fan feels on the question. At that, there are better ball players than little Josh.

IF, as reported, the Athletics open up against the Red Sox at Fenway Park on April 10, whom will be the opposing batteries? Pretty near time to be thinking of these things.

HOLY CROSS GAME IS STILL UNDECIDED

WORCESTER, Jan. 18. — It was reported at Holy Cross College today that the proposed game between the Red Sox and the college team in Boston on April 9 will be considered by Father Dinand, president of the college, before anything definite is announced. Definite action will be taken, it is said, after the schedule has been placed in the hands of Father Dinand. Further than this nothing would be said, except that some of the faculty are of the opinion that the game is not in accordance with the custom of the college.

AMATEUR BOXERS IN INTER-CITY BOUTS TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY.

THERE will be five intercity bouts between some of the leading amateur boxers of Greater Boston and New York at the B. A. A. tonight. There will also be contests staged in five open classes and as a large number of good boys have entered there is sure to be plenty of action.

The inter-city bouts have attracted considerable attention. It will be remembered that a similar tournament was conducted last year and that the mitt wielders from the big village carried away the bulk of the laurels.

The New York boxers who will take part in this evening's show are all experienced boys and are certain to give a good account of themselves.

J. Corsellous will represent New York in the 115-pound class. He will be pitted against Oscar Lloyd of Beverly who has put up some corking good battles at local amateur tourneys.

* * *

J. NUGENT, who captured second honors in the Metropolitan championships, will meet Walter S. Ridge of Brockton in the 125-pound class and the local followers of the game are picking Ridge to win. He made a great hit with the "fans" when he clashed with Johnny Fallon, the former 105-pound national champion, at the last amateur show of the Back Bay club.

William Cole of Roxbury will try his hardest to lower the colors of Harry Ruff, the Metropolitan champion, in a bout in the 125-pound champion. Rex is a sterling performer and rules a favorite.

J. Ruff of New York will have his work cut out for him when he swaps punches with Charles Aslins, the latter is the national c[illegible] and is naturally picked to win. [illegible]t in the 138-pound division will be between B. J. Lavelle, the New England champion, and W. Barry.

The open classes are 120, 135, 145, 158 and heavyweight class.

* * *

GILBERT GALLANT of Chelsea and Billy Nixon, the clever Cambridge lightweight, have been matched to meet in a twelve-round bout in Mechanics Hall, Manchester, N. H., on next Wednesday evening. It is the most important ring contest arranged since the Gallant-Kennedy bout at Lawrence.

Mike Gallagher, who arranged the matches for the Manchester club, at first tried to stage a "go" between Kennedy and Nixon. The doughty Lawrence battler, however, demanded that the weight for the bout be 133 pounds ringside, and as Nixon believes that he has as good a claim to the New England lightweight championship as Kennedy, he refused to permit the latter to dictate terms to him. As a result, the negotiations for the match fell through.

* * *

GALLAGHER tried to arrange for another meeting between Gallant and Kennedy. The Chelsea boxer was perfectly willing to meet Jim Critley's gallant little mixer, but Kennedy refused to sign for the bout.

The Manchester matchmaker then decided to match Nixon and Gallant. This should be a whirlwind battle. Gallant is a strong, rugged youngster though not quite as clever as Nixon. The latter is also able to mix things at close quarters and as a consequence the "fans" should witness a slashing battle which should even surpass the recent Wood-Gallant bout.

Penn. Baseball Squad Works Out of Doors and Sets a Record

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—Connie Mack and his band of Athletics will not have to go South for training if the warm weather continues. They can do their Spring work right here in this city. The weather was so warm here yesterday that the members of the University of Pennsylvania baseball squad vacated the gymnasium and did their practice stunts in the open air. The average temperature at 3 o'clock in the afternoon was sixty-two degrees the highest for this time of the year in the history of the local weather bureau.

BROWN RUNNERS TO COMPETE IN RACES AT ARMORY GAMES

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 18.—Manager R. D. Robinson of the Brown track team has announced the indoor schedule for the Winter. Only four events are included on the card and the only one which had not been previously announced is the Columbia relay carnival to New York, February 15. The Columbia meet ranks second to the B. A. A. games in importance to the hill men. Brown will send its relay team and entries for the open events. The opponents for the relays have not been picked, but will be determined at the time of the meet. Brown has been placed in Class B.

The schedule is as follows:

Jan. 25, Boston—Handicap games of the Massachusetts Coast Artillery Corps. Relay, Brown vs. Coast Artillery. 2 men, events, mile.

Feb. 15, New York City—Columbia relay carnival. Relay race, Class B. Open to colleges, events, mile.

Feb. 22, Providence—Providence Armory Athletic Association meet. Relay, Brown vs. Westerman. Entries in open events.

ADAMS IS ELECTED

W. H. Adams was elected captain of the Boston Latin swimming team yesterday, to succeed Max Gerasmiky, who resigned.

HARVARD SEVEN MEETS CORNELL IN BIG CLASH

THE LINEUP.

Morgan, r.w.		Keat
Phillips, c.		Sayre
Sweetzer, l.w.		Hill
Hopkins, l.w.		Moore
Claflin, c.p.		Smith
Willetts, p.		Clark
Gardiner, f.		Dana

The Harvard hockey team will have a hard time when it meets the Cornell seven at the Boston Arena tonight, for the latter has recovered from its setback met in the series with Princeton and is now in fine form.

Last season Cornell sprung a surprise on Harvard, which had a much better team than it has this year, and only lost by a 3 to 2 score and that only after an 11-minute overtime period. According to Graduate Manager Erwin Keat, the Ithacans will play a surprisingly fast game and they will make the Crimson serve show all it knows about the popular Canadian game.

Cornell has five veterans from last year's seven: E. M. Schou, the centre; L. B. Smith, coverpoint, and a hockey player of experience in Canada before he entered college; E. A. Hill, rover; O. M. Clark, point, and Moore, right wing. This is an advantage not shared by Harvard and it is one which is likely to cause the Crimson the most bother.

The victory of the Crimson over Toronto last Wednesday night, especially in view of the defeat of the strong B. A. A. by the same Canadians the following night, has been a big stimulus to the hopes of Harvard in its approaching big contests with Princeton and Yale. All the members of the team are in good condition physically.

JIMMY BARRETT QUITS DIAMOND FOR BUSINESS

DETROIT, Jan. 18—Jimmy Barrett, who at one time played for the Red Sox, has quit the game.

The hero of hundreds of phenomenal catches in major league outfields has decided to settle down to business. Jimmy has engaged offices here, and will become the agent for a motor engine company.

The passing of Barrett means the retirement of one of the greatest fielders in baseball's history. There are still several good years of playing left in Jimmy, but his wife and children protested so strongly that he decided to chuck away his uniform and write, "Sorry, old man, but I won't be able to play," to three or four managers who would like to have him on their pay roll next season.

Barrett can retire with a record the sight of which is pleasing. There have not been many outfielders who could compare with him. There are outfielders who can hit better than Jimmy could, but only in rare instances has his equal as a fielder been found.

RED SOX SIGN UP RECRUIT PITCHER FOR 1913 RACE

Earl Victory Moseley, a young pitcher whose work with the Youngstown Club of the Central League attracted the Red Sox scouts last Summer, has quit his signed contract to President James R. McAleer of the world's champions. Moseley is twenty-five years of age, stands five feet nine inches, weighs 168 pounds and pitches and bats right-handed. His home is in Alliance, O.

Last Spring, upon the recommendation of George Huff, the old Red Sox manager, Moseley was given a trial by the Chicago Cubs. His record with Youngstown, which team finished second in the Central League, is as follows: Games won, twenty-two; lost, eleven; an average of .667. There were 1,003 opponents at bat, who made 211 hits, ninety-one runs, 235 strike-outs. He gave ninety-five bases on balls and made eight wild pitches.

WASHINGTON EIGHT TO RACE STANFORD

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 18.—Arrangements have been made for the eight-oared crew of the University of Washington to meet the crews of the University of California and Leland Stanford, Jr., University on April 19 at Oakland. Plans are being made for a dual race between the University of California to be held on Lake Washington at Seattle May 17 or 24.

KEENAN AND MURRAY IN MATCH TONIGHT

Bob Upton of Salem won from Tom Murray of Boston, 125 to 107, last evening in the pool tournament at the White Bear Billiard Hall, for the New England championship. George Keenan of Providence will play Tom Murray of Boston tonight.

FREIGHT CLERKS TO BOWL.

There will be a tussle for the championship title of the Freight Clerks of the Boston & Albany Railroad in the Casino alleys on Tuesday night. Blanchard, Raphael, Campbell, Martin and Condon will perform for the uptown office, while McCarthy, Mullen, Lannan, Connors and McInerney will roll for the freight house. Both teams will have a heavy backing of "royal rooters."

Haughton May Be Kidnapped if He Is Not More Patriotic

If Percy Haughton has not signified his intention of returning as Harvard's head coach in football by February 1, Captain Ben Storer will appoint a committee from the Alumni ranks to confer with the Crimson football chieftain.

There appears to be considerable uneasiness concerning the coaching situation, and the athletic association's stand in the matter puts it squarely up to Mr. Haughton.

The committee of graduates will probably succeed in convincing the head coach that it is to the best interests of all concerned that he should again be at the helm of Harvard football.

Little is known concerning the make-up of next season's schedule. It will not contain as strong a list of opponents as last year's schedule did. The University of Pennsylvania will not be considered. Neither will Wisconsin.

BASEBALL SQUAD AT YALE TO START TRAINING EARLY

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 18.—The training season of the Yale baseball team opened by calling out the varsity candidates and by giving a smoker at the Hotel Taft for all men interested in baseball. Captain Blossom and Head Coach Quinby announced a number of innovations in the training methods.

Formerly the varsity squad in the beginning of the training consisted of all who desired to try for the team. This year the varsity squad will be picked before the training is begun and then increased from time to time as useful men show up in the class squads.

The varsity squad for the present will consist only of men who have had some varsity experience. It will be made up of Bobby C. Brown, Burdette, Cobb, Dyer, Faisey, Gile, Goodell, Harpham, W. Hunter, Middlebrook, Meible, Osborn, Reilly, Riddell, Shaw, Sherman, Sothard, Tinney, Cornish, Pendleton, Pumpelly, R. Stevens, Hoover, O'Connell and Blossom.

HARVARD FENCING TEAM SELECTED

S. F. Damon, '14, of Newton; J. A. Aylen, '15, of Ottawa, Canada, and Robert Von Nazdroff, '15, of Brooklyn, N. Y., have been chosen by Judges to compose the Harvard fencing team. Negotiations are now under way with the fencing team managers at Williams and Dartmouth, and a match with one or both of these teams is practically assured some time this month.

GIDNEY ENTERED IN SQUASH TOURNEY

Herbert A. Gidney, the B. A. A. high jumper, has entered in the individual squash racket tournament for the championship of the State, to be decided at the B. A. A. on January 25. Constantine Hutchins, the national champion, has also entered. Other entries are K. L. Lindsey and C. A. Wellington. Entries do not close until next week.

CHINAMAN KNOCKED OUT BY O'ROURKE

LAWRENCE, Jan. 18.—Terry O'Rourke of Lawrence and Frank Ah Chung, the fighting Chinaman of Salem, went on in the main event at the Unity Cycle Club here, as Noah Brusso, who was to have met Terry Mitchell, had hurt his hands in his recent fight with "Honey" Mellody. O'Rourke gained the decision in the sixth round as Ah Chung was unable to continue for the seventh session.

MATTY IS STILL GREATEST STAR, DECLARES CRANE

By SAM CRANE.
Baseball Editor of the New York American.

SAM CRANE

Christy Mathewson has sworn off smoking.

That does not seem much to a whole lot of people, perhaps, who fall from their best resolutions with little ado, but to an athlete, who may possibly have the championship of the National League and the world's series supremacy in his strong right arm, at its mercy, it is a big proposition.

Yes, Matty, who has smoked pipes, cigars and an occasional cigarette ever since he joined the Giants, over a dozen years ago, has cut out the weed.

In consequence the great pitcher is looking better right now than he ever was in the show-durry months for many a year.

Matty Typical Athlete.

Christy Mathewson today appears to be the typical athlete and baseball pitcher that he proved himself to be during the last World's Series. Then Matty was at his best. He did not win a game in the series, but no pitcher who worked in it came out with higher honors.

There are certain baseball fans, who have, year after year, predicted that Matty was "all in," "going back," or was in the throes of a collapse. But no such unfortunate result has happened—not as far as we could notice.

And I feel just as much confidence in Christy Mathewson for next season as I did when he was a Giant bud.

Mathewson is feared now by all opposing baseball players more than any of the more youthful pitchers, who have come in the front since Matty gained his prestige reputation, and I do not except the great Walter Johnson or the mighty Joe Wood.

Now, to those baseball fans who bank on Matty to hold his own and pull the Giants to victory, and also to those fans from out of the West, who count on Matty "going back" to give their teams the winning end, I will say that Christy Mathewson is still the best pitcher on earth and I look for him next season to be better than Jeff Tesreau or Rube Marquard, as good as they are. Put this prediction under your hat-band.

ANDOVER AND EXETER SEVENS TO CLASH

ANDOVER, Jan. 18.—For the first time in history, Andover and Exeter, the ancient rivals rivals in all branches of sports, will clash on the ice this year. The date has been set on February 8 at Andover, but if there is a lack of ice outdoor the game will be played at the Boston Arena.

THOMPSON BEST SKATER.

Gordon Thompson was the winner of the two-mile skating race held at the Arena. His greatest opponents were T. T. Murch and Stanley Rogers, but neither was able to cope with Thompson in the sprint. Thompson's time was 7m. 44.

M'MURRAY STARS.

At the Municipal A. A. Swimming meet held at Curtis Hall, Jamaica Plain, last night, McMurray won a first and a second, Warner a first and a third, and Guthrie a second and a third. The finals will be held in Curtis Hall on January 22.

HOW SWEET!

How sweet it is to see two gentle wrestlers on the mat
The while each manly countenance is stretched this way and that!
How sweet to see one pulverize his noble fireman's hair,
And deftly gouge an optic out and fracture seven toes!
How sweet to see him amputate an ear, and sometimes two,
And hold his foemen by the throat until his face turns blue!
How sweet to see them gently put each other on the fritz—
So different from those brutal men who fight with padded mits!

FINN RUNNER OUT TO BETTER BONHAG'S WORK

By THOMAS J. HALPIN.
Center-Mile Champion of United States and Canada.

Once again the spotlight of the athletic world is being turned on Hannes Kolehmainen, the wonderful Finnish runner, and before the indoor season is over he promises to add considerable to his laurels on the track.

Since he came here a few months ago, he has not been able to get in his great running stride, with the result that several mediocre men have defeated him. From now on the foreign lands he won all of the distance races he enters, and has sent a flip broadcast that before the indoor season is ended several of the best distance marks will go by the board.

At the recent games of the Fairies Nathew Society in Newark the athlete from across the Atlantic defeated Kramer and Scott in a three-mile race in the fast time of 14 m. 32 4-5s.

Out to Break Old Record.

This is the fastest time made since George Bonhag made his indoor record of 14m. 29 2-5s. at Buffalo in 1910. Kolehmainen sprinted the last two laps but just failed by a yard to capture first place from a handicap man. Lack of judgment and nothing else lost the race for the Finn. He figured that the handicap men would not have anything left when it came to the final lap but to his dismay the youngster fought tooth and nail and lost heat him out.

With the advent of the eg indoor meets that will shortly be held in New York and Boston, the Finn rescues that he will have the opportunity and the competition to break the record established by Bonhag.

The three-mile race at the Boston A. A. games promises to be a busy one. Those entered are Kolehmainen, Kramer, Scott and Smith. With the exception that in one race and all running from scratch on a big track a new record could be established. The track in Mechanics building is not conducive of the best performances, however, so that it will be quite impossible for these athletes to make record in this city.

ANDOVER TO MEET EXETER AT HOCKEY

ANDOVER, Jan. 18.—For the first time in the history of athletic competition between Andover and Exeter, the schools will meet at ice hockey. The date of this initial game is set for February 8 with Andover as the scene of action, but if the contingency of a lack of the necessary ice should arise, the game will be transferred to the Boston Arena.

Billy Queal Finally Engaged to Coach the Yale Runners

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 18.—Yale men here were elated over the news that Billy Queal has finally been engaged to take full charge of the Yale cross-country team. It has been announced here by the Athletic Association that the great American distance runner will arrive here Monday and that he will immediately start developing a team which he hopes will make a good showing next Fall.

Yale has been very weak in cross-country running during the past few seasons. The team was completely outclassed in its race with Harvard. The entire Harvard team completed the race before the first Yale man breasted the tape.

STAR ATHLETES TO COMPETE IN BIG CATHEDRAL MEET

There also will be a special invitation interscholastic mile run, in addition to relay races between clubs, schools and colleges. Three prizes will be awarded in each event, except the interscholastic mile and the team races, for which special trophies will be awarded. Entries close February 19, with Terence D. Gordon, 270 East Newton street, Boston.

JOE THOMAS SINKS 'GUNBOAT' ELDREDGE

LOWELL, Jan. 18.—"Battling Gunboat" Eldredge was knocked out by Joe Thomas in the third round of what was to have been a twelve-round bout in the rooms of the Lowell A. C. Eldredge nearly put out Thomas in the first round with a sledge hammer swing on the left side of his head, knocking Joe off his feet. In the third round Eldredge was pounded in the stomach so effectively that his seconds gave up the bout.

TUFTS BATTING CANDIDATES TO GET EARLY START

The battery candidates for the Tufts College baseball team have been called out by Captain William Bennett and they will soon report for first practice. The most likely pitchers are "Win" Adams of last year's team, Kropps, formerly of Mercersburg Academy, who it is reported, has signed with Connie Mack; Marks, a second string man, Davis, Lee and Bergen.

The catchers are Jameson, a last year varsity man; Geary, Comeo, Hill, of Peabody High and Nellis of Roslindale. It is hoped that the battery candidates will be coached by "Chippie" Gaw of the New England League, who is a student in the Medical School, and Harry Martin of the 1910 team, who signed with Combs Mack and later played with Baltimore in the International League.

The Ideal Man of Today

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1913, by the Star Company.

So much is said about the New Woman and so little about the New Man. Yet Man is a very different being from the one who used to dominate the world.

It would be impossible today to interest the reading world with a great moral or great poem on war, with such heroes as made history in the days of Alexander the Great, or Caesar or Napoleon.

The taste of the times is changed, because the men of the times have changed from butchers to inventors, from destroyers to creators, and turned from self-seeking aims to altruistic endeavors.

Few of us who read the criminal records of each day give a thought to the wonderful work which is going on silently and steadily right in our midst for the uplifting and betterment of humanity.

It would require an encyclopedia to name and describe all the noble, splendid, unselfish people and organizations which are doing successful work for the present day and the generations to come. The night schools scattered all over our great cities, the musical schools for the poor, the "Self Mastery" Colony, in New Jersey and in Chicago, and similar institutions elsewhere for men and women who have stumbled in the darkness and are trying to walk the straight road; the co-operative associations, which are growing in number and power; the Joseph Fels Fund Association, which is doing magnificent work for single tax both in this country and in Europe; the Salvation Army and the Y. M. C. A. organizations—all these institutions and a thousand more are governed and upheld by men of brain, education, power, place and influence; and each and every one is doing his best to make life easier and sweeter for his fellows.

Kindness Now Universal

Such men and such ideals of manhood were rare indeed in the time of the Alexanders and the Caesars and the Napoleons.

It must seem encouraging to the thoughtful mind when we consider how much more universal the spirit of kindness has become in the world in a hundred or two years.

Despite our unfortunate condition today, there was never so much universal intelligence on earth before, and never so many people thinking along progressive lines.

There was never before so strong a sentiment of kindness toward weaker things of earth.

Imagine a society for preventing cruelty to children, or for redressing the wrongs of animals, in the days of Napoleon! Even at so recent a period as that, parents were supposed to be individual monarchs over their children, no matter how they misused or neglected them. A priest might interfere with advice, or a child be brought into a convent for succor through his intervention, but there was no organized lawful protection for unfortunates.

And an animal might be tortured by a fiend in human form and no one could interfere unless he chose to come to a personal hand-to-hand combat.

Therefore brute force was a necessary element in the education of every young man who wanted to help right and defend weakness. But the age of humanitarianism has dawned. It is still dawn, but the sun is mounting the heavens with slow certainty, and casting into shadow the old idea that physical prowess means manliness.

The Truly Great

Abraham Lincoln is not famed as a skilled slayer of deer or as a pugilist. He might have failed utterly as a butcher of men and beasts. But he was a great statesman, a great ruler, a great man. Admiral Dewey was a great war hero, but we honor him more today for his bloodless victories than for an ability to slaughter his enemies like an old-time victor.

No man today stands forth as truly great who does not include mercy and humanitarianism among his virtues.

During the next hundred years brain and heart will be the most important qualities in leaders and rulers.

Muscle and physical courage will have to take second place. No man can have complete use of his mental powers, no matter how rare they may be, unless he is well and full of vitality.

But health and force do not necessarily include the use of the gun, or the sword, or even fists.

Many a splendid fellow endowed with the strength of a young Olympian god has no taste for shooting or boxing.

Good health, good habits, a love of nature, a love of humanity, and a mind filled with high ideals of helpfulness to humanity; a brain alert to understand the world's needs—these are attributes of the New Man.

He may not write essays on the best way to slaughter wild animals, but he will know how to slay the wild beasts of selfishness, and lust, and greed in his own nature, and how to deal with them in others.

Day of War Hero Over

However war may be raging upon the earth, today, yet the day of the war hero is over.

Humanity calls for a higher type and it is coming.

Wherever the world demands a new order of hero, he arrives.

Even now he is on the way—the Man to be!

And he will not be a "mollycoddle," a warrior, or a hunter—but a thinker, a statesman, and a humanitarian, in the largest sense of those words.

Here in this new world he will be born and bred, the grandest type of sterling man the world has yet seen.

The world is just beginning to know that thought is the most wonderful force in the universe. It is greater than dynamite or gunpowder, or electricity. The Man to Be will understand the limitless power of rightly directed thought, and he will not need to be a pugilist or a hunter to conquer or attain.

Just as the old monsters of land and sea passed away from the earth, so will the soldier and the hunter pass and give place to better types.

Off above the and world sobbing.
And the sirife of clan with clan,
I can hear the mighty throbbing
Of the heart of God in man.

And a voice chants through the chiming
Of the bells and seems to say
We are climbing, we are climbing,
As we circle on our way.

Soul's Beauty

By D. G. ROSSETTI.

Under the arch of life, where love and death,
Terror and mystery guard her shrine, I saw
Beauty enthroned; and though her gaze struck awe,
I drew it in as simply as my breath.
Here are the eyes which, over and beneath,
The sky and sea bend on thee—which can draw,
By sea or sky or woman, to one law,
The allotted bondman of her palm and wreath.
This is that Lady Beauty in whose praise
Thy voice and hand shake still—long known to thee
By flying hem and fluttering hair—the beat
Following her daily of thy heart and feet,
How passionately and irretrievably,
In what fond flight, how many days and ways!

Jack and the Wonder Girl Defy the Dynamite

DRAWING BY G. MICHELSON

They'd wandered, aimless, up the street,
After the matinee,
Their minds absorbed, their souls replete
With love scenes from the play.
She vowed—and she WOULD have her say
(Weak woman's wit, alack!)—
That He—the hero of the play—
Was utterly like Jack.

Of course, no girl can talk like that—
And yet, of course, they do—
They think their words enlarge your hat,
When they're just stabbing you.
"Huh!" Jack replied, "so you'd compare
Me to a sise like him!
Am I a sop with flowing hair
'Mongst chubby cherubim?"

"Why, Jack, I thought he was so sweet;
He had such honest eyes!
And didn't you observe how neat
Were all his shoes and ties?"
Jack hadn't — No! — the argument
Grew terrible in force.
An hour's woeful walk was spent
In desperate discourse.

At last they HAD to stop and rest
(They'd gone most out of town.)
So, on a ragged rock-pile's crest,
Still talking, they sat down.
But soon their stern asperities
To other thoughts gave room.
A tiny, tender hand sought his—
And he forgot his gloom.

They do not hear the warning cry.
The grim flag waves unseen.
A crash! A shock! The boulders fly,
And still they sit serene.
"Perhaps they're blasting here," said Jack.
"Where shall we dine tonight?"
"You're hungry? Oh!" she pouted back.
"No; but let's dine a might."

Hunting a Husband

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER

The Widow Feels Considerably Better While She Learns of the Departure of Her Elderly Suitor.

After what seemed a long while to the lonely invalid as she lay trying to find forgetfulness in her book, she heard Mary come out of the children's room and proceed to the kitchen, whence she emerged a little later bearing a tray which she set down on the chair at Beatrice's bedside. The sick woman made a grimace of protest.

"Sure, ma'am, it will do you good to eat a bit of supper," urged the maid. "I've cooked a nice little squab that Mrs. Robbins sent over, and I've made you a little salad such as you like. Eat something and you'll feel better."

To her own surprise Beatrice did feel better when she had partaken of the dainty supper the kind-hearted girl had prepared. But when she was alone again she found herself still dreading the meeting with Henry Blanchard which she felt was inevitable. In her weakened condition the fear had become an obsession, such as only sick persons know, and she had not the strength of will to combat it. Suddenly, as she lay moodily thinking, she heard the crunch of gravel on the walk that ran around the bungalow, and, a moment later, there was borne to her the low murmur of a masculine voice at the kitchen door.

"Perhaps one of the men from the village has come up to see Mary," she mused. "Well, if he makes her contented in the country, I don't care."

But she learned her mistake as to the identity of the masculine visitor when, a moment later, her door was pushed open softly and Mary entered, bearing a huge basket of fruit.

"Mr. Maynard's just been here asking about you, ma'am," she announced. "He wouldn't come to the front door for fear of disturbing you. And he left this for you."

A Basket of Fruit

The basket was so large that it was with difficulty that Mary lifted it to the table at Beatrice's side. "Sure, ma'am, ain't they grand!" she exclaimed, enthusiastically.

Dusky plums, great bothouse grapes, peaches, nectarines and apricots shone in the lamplight. On top of them was Paul Maynard's card on which he had written:

"To offset the harshness of the doctor, who says you are ill."

"Mr. Maynard says he'll call again in the morning," reported the maid. "And now is there anything else you'll be wanting before I go to bed?"

"Nothing," said the mistress, dreamily and happily. "Just eat this fruit over by the open window, where it will keep cool. Then I will try to sleep."

She succeeded so well that she awoke the following ... going more normal in body and mind. When Helen, after taking John Robbins to the train, came in to see the widow her friend smiled brightly and said that she was "almost well."

"Uncle Henry went to the city today!" announced Helen, apropos of nothing.

"Then I really think I will feel enough to get up!" remarked Beatrice, demurely.

"I thought you would," was Helen's dry response, whereat both women smiled mischievously.

"But I don't dare get up," regretted Beatrice, "unless Dr. Haynes says I may. He was as cross as a bear the last time I disobeyed him. And when he saw me last he told me I was to lie still until I heard from him again."

"Then I'll telephone to Boston to him," suggested Helen briskly. "That will give him a chance to grant you his august permission."

Accordingly she called up the physician, and after a minute of conversation reappeared in the widow's room.

"Dr. Haynes wants to speak to you at the phone," she said. "He says to be sure to put on a wrapper and slippers, dear."

Beatrice did as she was told and made her way cautiously to the hall where the telephone was. Her knees were a little unsteady, but otherwise she had no uncomfortable sensations.

If she had expected any tender solicitude from her medical adviser she was mistaken, for he spoke to the point with professional brevity.

"How is your head, Mrs. Misorr?" he asked.

"Oh, it's quite all right, doctor," Beatrice assured him. "I had a good night's sleep and I feel well. Please let me get up. I get so depressed lying in bed all day!"

"If you really feel all right, and will do nothing imprudent, there is no reason for your staying in bed, of course. But do take things easy for a day or two. You know you have been a quite ill woman."

"I'll take very good care of myself," promised the widow. Then, as an after thought, she added: "I want to thank you, doctor, for your very great kindness to me."

Paul Maynard Calls

"You have nothing to thank me for, Mrs. Minor," said the man, earnestly, "it is always a pleasure and privilege for me to serve you in any way. I shall hope to see you again soon. I shall be out in Pleasanton before long."

Beatrice returned to her room, pleased and surprised at the physician's sudden courtesy. "He never even asked about Jean, as he always used to do," she thought, amusedly. Then, when Helen had helped her put on a dainty negligee, she had her easy chair placed on the veranda and ate her breakfast there. When Helen had gone home she remained on the porch and gazed happily at the hills beyond the blue lake. It was good to be alone, she thought, on such a day, and very good to be so nearly well again.

She started at the roar of a car on the driveway, and saw Paul Maynard speeding up the hill toward her. The big car slid up to the steps and stopped, and the driver sprang out and hastened toward her.

"You are a sight for weary eyes!" he exclaimed, as he took her hand and pressed it. "Here was I expecting to get, at best, only a second-hand report of your condition, and instead of that I find your own sweet self out getting some of God's lifegiving fresh air."

"I am much better," said the widow smiling up at him. She was conscious again of the thrill of pleasure that his presence always gave her. "I think," she continued, "that the gorgeous fruit you sent me had much to do with my rapid improvement."

An Apology

An Irishman was going along the road when an angry bull rushed at him and tossed him over a fence.

The Irishman, recovering from his fall upon looking up saw the bull pawing and tearing up the ground, as is the custom of the animal when irritated, whereupon he smiled at the animal and said:

"If it was not for your bowing and scraping and your humble apologies, you brute, fait I should think that you'd thrown me over this fence on purpose."

An Alibi

"Uncle Remus!" roared Colonel White, who had been aroused in the middle of the night by a suspicious noise in his poultry house. "Is dat you in there, you black thief?"

"No, sah, humbly replied a frightened voice. "Dis is mah cousin, dat looks so much like me, and stands everythin' so can lay his wicked han's on. Ah is at home dis minute, sah, sleepin' de sleep ob de just."

Household Hints

To renovate black kid gloves take a spoonful of soot and milk it to a very thick paste with a few drops of olive oil. Apply with a paint brush to the white spots on the gloves and then rub the oil off with a scrap of soft flannel. This will make them look like new.

On cleaning up the fireplace always fix a sheet of newspaper before the opening when raking out the ashes. The paper causes a draught, which carries the dust up the chimney, instead of its covering the hearth and going into the room.

Alum water is good to use for rinsing curtains and muslin hangings, children's dresses and pinafores, in order to render them non-inflammable. Two ounces of alum should be dissolved in one gallon of water and be used in the rinsing process.

To mend broken glass and china melt common alum in an old iron spoon over the fire, then apply to the pieces of china or glass. When dry these articles can be washed in hot water and the cement will not melt.

To soften paint brushes which have become dry and hard, heat as much vinegar as required to boiling point, immerse the brushes and allow them to simmer for ten minutes; then wash in strong soapsuds.

To prevent frying fish from becoming greasy and sodden, have the fat in which it is to be fried almost boiling hot before putting the fish in the pan. A blue smoke will be rising from the fat when it is in the proper condition.

That little word "my" tells an interesting story.

It means that the pure, flowery quality of Orange Pekoe so impresses tea-lovers that—

They think of it as their tea—associate it with their tea-table—and delight in serving it to their friends.

BOSTONIANS TO OBSERVE HOME RULE VICTORY

Boston supporters of the Irish home rule cause will meet on Tuesday evening at the American House. The gathering will be in celebration of the great victory won for the home rule bill on Thursday night in the House of Commons.

The meeting will be under the auspices of Boston Central Branch of the United Irish League, of which Michael J. Jordan is president.

Prominent members of the league will be present and make addresses. Messages of congratulation will be cabled to John E. Redmond, M. P., leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, voicing the joy of the men and women of the Irish race in Boston on the present bright outlook for Ireland.

Steps will be taken at the meeting Tuesday evening to complete the amount pledged by Massachusetts at the national convention of the league held last Fall in Philadelphia. Some $8,000 of the pledge still remains unsubscribed.

Since Parnell began the fight for home rule Boston has been one of the foremost centres of practical support the movement has had. When visiting America last Fall, William Redmond, the eloquent brother of the Irish leader, said the two cities of Boston and Philadelphia have led all the rest of the United States in their continued and generous support of the movement for Irish autonomy.

NEW ENGLAND WOMEN DISCUSSING PROBLEM OF LIVING ON $8 A WEEK

Women all over New England are discussing the question: "Can a girl live on $8 a week?"

Many of them are writing their views to the AMERICAN. Some think a girl can live well on $8 a week. Others say real living is impossible on that sum. The AMERICAN is receiving scores of these letters every day. Here are some of the letters:

Suggests Little Flat.

Editor AMERICAN:

From experience I can explain how two or three working girls could get along comfortably and quite reasonably in Boston. Sometimes in the furnished room columns in the AMERICAN you will see advertised two or three furnished rooms for light housekeeping. In these three rooms you have a comfortable little sitting room, a bed room and a kitchen. Everything is furnished—and rule for washing.

These three rooms would be plenty for three girls, for one could sleep in the sitting room, and how cosy and how homelike they could make the flat.

Walpole, Jan. 2. MRS. A. J. H.

How She Lives on $9.00

EDIOR, AMERICAN:

I am employed in Boston, my pay being $9.00 a week, out of which I support myself in the following manner: I room out and pay $2.50 a week for a side room "heated." I get my own breakfast, which costs $1.10 a week; car and morning paper amount to 70c; dinners, $1.75; my supper, the Boston American daily and Sunday, $1.10; laundry during the winter, 50c a week; life insurance, 15c a week; church, 15c; recreation, 25c, which leaves me $2.50 a week for myself on, and I live just as economically as my salary forces me to do and eat. If any girl can clothe herself decently on 70c a week, without outside help, she will have to show me. M. M. P.

Boston, Jan. 13, 1913.

Tells How She Lived.

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

I wish to tell of my experience as a working girl, and hope it will benefit some who think they cannot live on $8.00 a week. A girl must live in the same city or town she works in, and have room and board in one place. I always lived with some private family. I pa.. $3.75 for room and board. Nowadays I should pay $4.00 a week. Get a nice woman and pay twenty-five cents a week for washing, doing the small pieces oneself. I always kept my stockings and clothing carefully mended, and in that way many weeks would pass that I paid nothing for clothing. In the Fall I would buy a good hat, a dress coat, shoes, gloves and two good suits of underclothes with the money I had saved during the Summer. In the Spring I would do the same with what I had saved during the Winter. Each time I found it did not take near all of it. Always had what I wanted and had a good time.

MRS. L. L. C.

Jan. 3, 1912. Malden.

Puts Money in the Bank.

I work for $6.50 a week. I board and room with a private family. I help with the ironing and dishes. I make my own clothes and trim my own hats.

If girls would be a little more sensible when buying their clothes and get the most serviceable instead of the most stylish they could save more.

My expenses are as follows:

Board and room	$5.50
Put in bank	1.00
Clothing	1.40
Dentist	.10
Church	.10
Amusement	.25
Total	$8.35
Surplus	1.15

K. K. K.

What an $8 Salary Will Do.

Editor AMERICAN:

To live on $8 per week one must cultivate a great spirit of sacrifice, crush desire, select the most nourishing foods and conform one's nature and mind to the environment which gives just enough to eat to live, a place to sleep and a few clothes.

Women are the best friends. An honorable woman doing the best she can will always have honorable women friends, and she need never fear to make her wants known to them. God helps those who help themselves; poverty and pride cannot walk hand in hand if one is true to one's self. Girls, when in need, go to your own sex. A few good women friends will be far more valuable to you than one so-called male friend. The loss you have to do with the opposite sex at the present time is better for yourself in many ways. Take your little $8, if that is all you can get, be thankful for it, and do the best you can with it, and let it, through sacrifice, draw you away from the world with its deceptions and life-sapping snares; crush your desires if need be; it will make you able to stand alone in life and you will enjoy a freedom with it that comes no other way. A knowledge of men and his ways that will make you appreciate that freedom, and smile even with your little $8.

You can care for yourself, and that is all the Lord intended you to do. A strong faith and perfect trust in a Providing Care will work miracles for you. Try it and SEE. When you are ill or discouraged, try to keep cheerful in mind; it is only a shadow passing, and fight it out on that line. Nature will be good to you if you are to her. It is best to sacrifice after one has been forced to a long time. It becomes a pleasure, give one to a higher side of life, and is always rewarded. The sacrificing poor lose nothing in the end.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

Trading in stocks was rather restricted in all markets at the opening to-day. There is much hesitancy because of general uncertainty as to the situation. Sentiment is still bearish on the whole. It is thought that the short interest has become very large.

The Boston market was irregular at the beginning, and the rise in Granby was the feature. It gained 3½ points within a few minutes. Among issues to make fractional gains during the first hour were Lake, North Butte, Indiana and American Zinc.

The local market improved in tone during the morning and the most issues were higher at the close. This was true, too, of New York.

The New York bank average statement for today is as follows: Excess cash reserve, $21,990,250; increase, $4,976,300; loans, decrease, $52,197,000; specie, increase, $21,181,000; legal tenders, increase, $827,000; net deposits, decrease, $74,206,000; circulation, decrease, $307,000. Actual statement—Loans, increase, $32,509,000; specie, increase, $17,389,000; legal tenders, decrease, $2,508,000; net deposits, increase, $46,316,000; reserve increase, $19,695,000.

Two hundred thousand dollars in gold coin was taken from the New York subtreasury today for shipment to South America.

New York Opens Quiet.

The New York market was quiet at the opening, and most price movements were narrow. The best gain in the beginning was made by Louisville & Nashville, which advanced one point, while the largest loss was sustained by National Lead, which was off ¼. Steel common began with a gain of ⅛, but within twenty minutes increased its advance to ⅜. Amalgamated was ⅛ up but reacted.

Among the other advances were Utah Copper ¼, Union Pacific ½, Southern Railway ⅛, Southern Pacific ¼, Rock Island ⅛, Reading ⅛, and American Beet Sugar ⅛. Great Northern Ore certificates declined and American Smelting was unchanged on first sales but gained fractionally later. Steel preferred and California Petroleum were also unchanged.

The curb was dull.

There was moderate buying of Americans in London. Canadian Pacific rebounded on earnings reports in that market.

Copper Metal Market.

It was said this morning in regard to the copper metal market that producers think the bottom of the decline was reached at 14½ cents a pound and that buying on a big scale is to be resumed. Large orders are looked for in the domestic field.

One interesting statement made in New York this morning reads: "It came to light yesterday that one of the big producers had been unable to market all his December copper and as a result was forced to bring it forward into the new year. This interest has been most aggressive in endeavoring to find a buyer, prices at which buyers would take copper. It was thought furthermore that the greater part of the 105,000,000 pounds of refined copper on hand January 1 belonged to this producer."

Harriman Directors Disagree?

It is believed on Wall Street that a lively dispute is brewing among the directors of the Harriman lines regarding the Central Pacific, which is the part of the Southern Pacific desired by the Union Pacific.

According to a director of the Union Pacific, there is a wide difference between valuations placed on Central Pacific stock by the Union Pacific and by the Southern Pacific directors and this makes the problem of dissolution more difficult.

Financial News in Brief.

Chairman Pujo of the Congressional probers, says: "The banks regard even the character of their assets as secret information which they are entitled to withhold from the scrutiny of this committee."

The Pure Oil Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 3 per cent. on common stock which is an increase of ½ of 1 per cent. over the last disbursement.

A Washington dispatch says that substantial reduction of the tariff all along the line in the wood pulp and print paper schedule and retention of approximately the existing duties on tobacco, cigars and similar articles constitutes part of the Democratic tariff revision program to be presented to the coming extra session of Congress.

Besides declaring a 1¼ per cent. dividend, Granby directors voted to call a special stockholders' meeting on February 25 to pass on a $5,000,000 bond issue. The last dividend declared was 1 per cent. and it was paid on December 30, 1910.

New copper smelters are now under construction by the Arizona Copper Company, United Verde and Calumet & Arizona companies, while the Tacoma plant of the American Smelting & Refining Company is undergoing a complete reconstruction which includes increasing the electrolytic refinery from 24,000,000 to 36,000,000 pounds capacity per annum. Granby is building a 2,000-ton smelter in British Columbia and the Great Falls plant of the Anaconds is under reconstruction.

During 1912 the value of materials imported for manufacturing broke all records and reached the total of more than $925,000,000.

From the way money is now pouring into New York some bankers think that business in the interior must be falling off. But bank clearings continue to show a large percentage of increase over the corresponding period of a year ago and reasonable trade is said to be more active than usual.

There were thirty-seven new cotton mills built in the United States in 1912 and twenty of them were in Southeastern States and represent 427,000 out of 533,100 new spindles.

The Prairie Oil & Gas Company has declared a dividend of $5 a share, which was the same amount paid in November.

WILSON ANXIOUS TO PAY VISIT TO PANAMA CANAL

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 18.—That Colonel George W. Goethals, now engineer in charge, is to be the first Governor of the Panama Canal zone, is the conclusion prevalent since his interview with Governor Wilson and the latter's assertion that he is very anxious to visit the canal as soon as he could.

Of the conference Governor Wilson said:

I asked Colonel Goethals many things that I really could have found out from print, but which I would much rather get from him, about the plans and administrative arrangements, so that I could be ready to take hold without too many preliminary inquiries when I take office.

Governor Wilson's talk with Colonel Goethals lasted about three-quarters of an hour. As Mr. Wilson desires to see the canal before it is opened, it is probable that if he makes a visit it will be before December, when it is expected the water will be let in.

Governor Admits 2 Watertown Boys Have "One" On Him

Successful and astute business man that he is, Governor Foss was forced to admit today that for once, at least, somebody had "put one over on him."

What is more surprising still, the person credited with having accomplished this remarkable feat are two young Watertown boys.

The story came out at the State House today when Raymond Greene and Fred Waller, of Watertown, marched into the executive chambers and asked to see the Governor regarding a clubhouse they had built in Watertown on land owned by him. It seems the youngsters are members of a club which decided that more palatial quarters were needed than a certain street corner in Watertown. A vacant field between School street and Dexter avenue, Watertown, seemed a suitable site, and the "band" fell to and erected an unpretentious but serviceable edifice.

The Governor was too busy to see the boys and he instructed his secretary, John C. Sherman, to hear their story. The two lads told him they would make Governor Foss an honorary member of their club if he cared to accept the honor.

Sherman told them the Governor would give the matter the most careful consideration.

SUFFRAGISTS MUST PAY TO AVOID HIKE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—Either hike or pay the expense of a substitute. This was the ultimatum issued to suffragists along the Atlantic coast cities today by "General" Rosalie Jones, who will lead the pilgrimage from New York to Washington next month. Mrs. Travis Cockran and many other wealthy suffragists in this city have agreed to pay the expense of a substitute.

'JEWELS' GIVEN A BRILLIANT FIRST NIGHT

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Free from marring incident and political interference, the "Jewels of the Madonna," Wolf Ferrari's sensational opera of Neapolitan life, was sung at the Boston Opera House last night.

Nothing that has been given here in two years provoked such mad applause as this. It was a great, gorgeous hit from the rising of the curtain.

Never was seen such brilliant stage pictures. Color ran amuck, everything reeked with. Neapolitan life. The warm sun, the hot blood, the picturesque abiding places of Naples were stimulated with astounding realism. Urban, the artist-stage manager in this production has equalled his wonderful "Tales of Hoffman."

Louise Edvina, Giovanni Zenatello, Vanni Marcoux headed the admirable cast, which contains thirty-six principal roles and makes the opera impossible for any but the biggest opera houses.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—In a few hours the great 1913 national automobile show will be a matter of history. Tremendous crowds have poured into the Grand Central Palace and the Madison Square Garden since last Saturday evening and the exhibitors report fine business.

Just as soon as the doors close tonight on the pleasure car show an army of workmen will begin to replace the exhibitions with commercial vehicles of every type, which will be on display from Monday until Saturday. The commercial power wagon end of the show will display more progress than the pleasure section, because this end of the motor car industry is yet in its infancy, although rapid strides have been made.

After all, the pleasure show did not bring out any startling feature, and while there are a number of inventors at work upon the kerosene oil carburetor, none were shown at the show. With the cost of gasoline still going up, this machine would no doubt have attracted a great deal of interest. However, this is a thing to be looked forward to at the next show.

Most of the big Boston delegation left for some last night. Already scores of Boston agents and salesmen of this commercial vehicles have arrived, and are busy getting ready for the truck show next week.

Dear Suffragettes, You Will Win With Your Heads, THINKING—Not With Your Feet, WALKING

Nevertheless, If It Makes You Feel Proud and "Equal" to Walk to Albany or Washington or Timbuctoo, Why, WALK, BY ALL MEANS

Copyright, 1913, by American Journal-Examiner

Miss Jessie Hardy Stubbs wrote from Kinderhook, on the way to Albany, saying that she appreciated the Hearst newspapers' support of woman suffrage. She was one of a number of women walking from New York City to Albany to tell the Governor that he ought to be a friend of equal suffrage.

Miss Stubbs says in her letter, written some days since, "The journey is almost over. I did not expect editorial aid until we had made good; but shall be looking in a day or two for one of your rare contributions."

Here is a "rare contribution," and here is what we have to say to Miss Stubbs and the other gallant suffragettes that walked to Albany and that now talk of walking much farther.

It is not WALKING but thinking AND TALKING that will win for suffrage.

Women did not need to wait until they had walked to Albany "to make good." Woman "made good" when she gave the first baby to Adam. Cain did not prove to be much of a success, but Abel made up for him. He was a good boy. And when woman said to Adam quite truthfully, "Here are two men as big and useful as you are," SHE MADE GOOD.

Woman has been making good ever since, creating the human race, changing men from savages to semi-civilized beings, putting up with the stupidity and brutality of man, gradually teaching the little boys not to imitate their fathers, but rather to imitate their mothers, giving to the human race all that it has of decency, kindness, justice and true progress.

Woman made good when she handed the two handsome patriotic Gracchi boys to Rome.

Woman made good when Letitia with the broad hips and the great energy gave to Europe Napoleon Bonaparte, who made Kings ridiculous.

Woman made good when Nancy Hanks, in a cabin without a window or a wooden floor, presented to the world Abraham Lincoln, who abolished slavery on this continent.

Woman has made good every time anything great has been done in this world. For the man who DOES the work is simply the creation of the WOMAN. And it is THE MOTHER OF THE MAN WHO REALLY DOES ALL THAT THE MAN DOES.

Miss Stubbs, and other charming suffragettes, if you want to walk to Washington or to Albany or Chicago or San Francisco, do so.

If you want to prove that you can be as able as a policeman at arresting thieves, or as brave as a tiger at fighting burglars, DO SO.

But remember that suffrage, the right of women to have a share in government, has nothing to do with woman's ability to walk to Albany, or jump over a fence five feet high.

Some of the greatest men that have ever lived couldn't walk to Albany—and they didn't need to.

And some of the most useful men in the world couldn't jump over a fence four feet high—they didn't need to.

The thing is to use, not your feet, but your brains. It is because women have both brains and heart, and USE them, that they are soon going to vote.

Let them walk if they will, but it is a waste of energy.

P. S.—You don't need to be told that whenever a man has done anything wonderful in a physical way he has owed it to his mother. You can be sure that the man who won that first great "Marathon Race," bringing the great news to the Greeks and then falling dead, was the son of a healthy mother. The wonderful Italian who ran the Marathon so sensationally in London, lately, was the son of a healthy Italian mother.

All the athletes, conquerors, artists, scientists, etc., of the world are what they are THANKS TO THEIR MOTHERS. The father has comparatively little to do with the children. He represents perhaps one-tenth—and the mother nine-tenths. This doesn't flatter the vanity of masculine fools. But it is FACT.

Woman is great because she is the mother of all the great men. And she is still greater BECAUSE SHE IS THE MOTHER OF ALL THE GREAT WOMEN. The woman who gives a son to the world may give one useful man—and that is the most she can do.

The woman who gives a DAUGHTER to the world gives to the world the potential creator of many sons and daughters—something much more valuable than one man. Therefore, the fathers whose wives give them GIRLS should be proud and extremely happy.

Mr. Walker Leaves the Republican Party—AMERICAN'S Prophecy Quickly Fulfilled

Mr. Joseph Walker's renunciation of the Republican party and his joining with the Progressive party is important and encouraging to those who have hoped that the election of Mr. Weeks to the United States Senate by the compulsory processes of organized greed in this Commonwealth might not be unfruitful of some good and compensating results.

The AMERICAN said on Monday and reiterated it on Wednesday that the election of Mr. Weeks would not cost the State too much if it cost the Republican party what is left of its honest adherents.

Now Mr. Walker, but recently the Speaker of the House of Representatives, a man whose integrity was never questioned and who could have been the United States Senator in place of Mr. Lodge had he the courage which has now led him out of the Republican party, who was the Republican candidate for Governor at the last election, who has been sporadically progressive, sometimes pulling back from the logic of his opinions like a man who was being slowly convinced

Mary Boyle O'Reilly's Own Story of Her Experiences and of Her Adventures While Working in New York's Canneries

MISS MARY BOYLE O'REILLY, a girl with a gifted intellect and a warm heart to guide it, did a courageous thing a short time ago in New York.

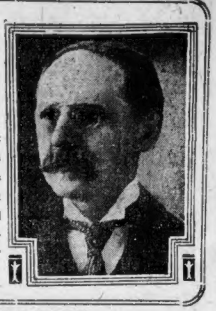
She had heard of the child labor barbarities in the canneries of that State. She could not believe the story, or that such conditions could exist in the Empire State of this Union. She determined to investigate, knowing well the discomfort, the self-sacrifice, the danger such a personal search for facts would mean.

Disguised as a "cannery" girl and under the name of Mamie Riley, she obtained a job in one of those factories. She worked under conditions from which any girl of her refinement would naturally recoil. She kept her eyes and her ears open and her powers of observation constantly on guard, and she saw enough of child labor and its atrocious conditions to shock American civilization.

Miss O'Reilly then went to Washington and, armed with a magazine of facts, laid a story before a committee of Congress, about which the men who heard it are still talking.

But the great mass of the people are yet ignorant of the story. They read only snatches of it in the dispatches from Washington. For the first time the full story of Miss O'Reilly's experiences and adventures will be told in tomorrow's Sunday AMERICAN. It is an amazing story of present-day conditions hardly believable.

YOU CAN AID IN THE BATTLE AGAINST DISEASE



GARRETT P. SERVISS SAYS:

"The Human Body Is Filled with Millions of Microbes, but It Is Only the Anarchistic Ones That Are Dangerous, as Educated and Civilized Ones Are Not Only Harmless but Are Also Helpful"

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

IF you read the article on "The Battle of the Microbes," in the Cosmopolitan Magazine for February, you will learn a very curious fact, viz.: that the only dangerous microbes are the foolish ones.

The wise microbes (and our bodies harbor thousands of billions of them) do us no harm, and probably sometimes do us much good. They are settlers in the vast empire of microscopic beings that we call a human body, and they till the soil, like capable agriculturists, without exhausting it. It is as much to their interest as to ours that the life and health of the body should be preserved. Yet they could destroy us if they would, just as the mass of the population of any great country could bring it down in ruin, and themselves along with it, if they suddenly turn back to savagery, and forget all the lessons of forbearance, temperance and co-operation, taught by the experience of long lines of industrious ancestors.

Harmless Because They Are Civilized and Educated

They are not only harmless, but helpful, because they are educated and civilized.

And yet these wise microbes that swarm in our bodies differ, in constitution, from the dangerous and foolish ones no more than civilized men differ in bodily form from the most brutal and benotted savages that our race has produced.

It may seem ridiculous to speak of "educated" and "civilized" microbes—but the investigations of bacteriologists absolutely justify the terms. These microscopic beings, which resemble rather plants than animals, when they have become regular inhabitants of the body of a large animal, settle into communities that cause no harm to the life of the whole body, but perhaps help to keep it active.

The uncivilized invaders which do the harm, which produce so many fatal diseases, are like the hordes of barbarians that broke down the Roman empire. Their only object is to ravage and destroy. They preserve nothing, they cultivate nothing, they simply rush on until they are themselves involved in the universal destruction. Yet science has discovered that even they can be tamed.

There could be no more important and interesting occupation for any man's leisure hours than to study the revelations that the science of bacteriology has made of the internal government of our bodies.

When Child Is Ill He Will Understand Struggle

Then, when he sees his child suffering from scarlet fever or diphtheria, he will understand the nature of the struggle that is going on in that little body, the desperate battles that occur there between the invading enemies and the hosts of its microscopic defenders, and he will thank heaven that science has unveiled the secrets of the foe, and learned how to give aid to the beleaguered garrison.

He will, in the light of the knowledge he has gained, in the face of the fact that some of the milk sold in the market, to be fed to babies, contains FIVE MILLION MICROBES TO A SINGLE DROP, begin to best himself to uphold the hands of those who are battling for clean and pure food, against the remorseless demands of greed. "A baby dies at every other tick of the clock!" Nine-tenths of these innocents could be saved if science were permitted to perform its work without opposition.

Study of these things would also open the eyes of many misled, well-meaning people who listen to the outcry of sentimentalists against the work of the laboratories—a work without which we should never have known the true sources of most of the destructive diseases that decimate humanity, or have discovered the means of combating them, and the continuance of which is essential to the further advance of that beneficent knowledge.

Human Body Is a World of Good and Bad Microbes

The discovery that the human body is a world of microbes, bristling with defences, but assailed by billions of enemies—a battleground in whose struggles science can interfere to aid the weak, as the gods of Olympus interfered between the battling hosts on the plain of Troy, is the greatest advance that humanity has made for many a century.

Mr. Walker Leaves Republican Party

against his will—now such a pillar of the Republican party has been lost to it by its subservience to those corporation influences which dictated the election of Mr. Weeks.

It is encouraging that such a man as Mr. Walker should withdraw his support from a party now only capable of doing harm and should join a new party having in its membership so much intelligence and earnestness as is possessed by the Progressive party of Massachusetts. But the GROUND on which Mr. Walker feels compelled to join the new party is in itself also encouraging. He joins the new party because he has become at last convinced that direct legislation—the initiative and referendum—are the only means by which the conditions which he deplores can be corrected.

It is worth rereading what Mr. Walker says:

> There seems to me now no hope of a reorganization of the Republican party in which progressive principles or progressive leadership will be recognized.
>
> If the Legislature can be dominanted by private and special interests in the selection of a United States Senator, it can be dominated by the same interests in matters of legislation. The same methods which have been used by these interests, acting through a political machine, to elect their representatives to the Senate, may be used to affect legislation in which they are interested.
>
> In spite of myself, I am at last convinced that there is but one effective remedy, namely, to revise our political machinery, so that the people may not only nominate and elect all representatives directly but also may legislate directly whenever their interests demand such action.
>
> I, therefore, will hereafter co-operate with those who are trying to devise a practicable and satisfactory method of initiative and referendum. I am convinced that this is necessary in order to free the people from the dominance of the private and special interests which have so clearly proved their power to control the Legislature.
>
> In Massachusetts we have arrived at the parting of the ways. The Republican party, under the dominance of the old leadership, has definitely rejected all Progressives. As a Progressive, I feel that there is no longer any place for me in the Republican party.

It should be remembered that Mr. Walker has come slowly and reluctantly to his belief in direct legislation. The AMERICAN wonders if Mr. McCall's experience with the workings of representative government, under present conditions, has mellowed also HIS views somewhat on the question of direct legislation.

It is quite probable that the reactionary Republican leaders will attempt to keep Mr. McCall's eyes blinded a little longer by holding in front of them the promise of a gubernatorial nomination as a booby prize, next year.

Will it work?
